Shakespeare’s

HAMLET

an edition by Andrew Hilton
HAMLET – the Texts

There are three major versions of Hamlet – the ‘1st Quarto’ (Q1), published in 1603, the ‘2nd Quarto’ (Q2) published in 1604/5, and the ‘1st Folio’ (F1), published in 1623. Further quarto editions are based on Q2, and further folios are revisions of F1.

What is generally referred to as the ‘full text’ is the 2nd Quarto, and this forms the basis of most modern editions of the play. It is enormously long, in performance probably about 4 hours, and longer than Shakespeare’s own company could possibly have performed in the 2.00 – 5.00 slot they were allowed in the Globe Theatre. So the commonly held idea that it is the play as Shakespeare would have liked to see it played is questionable.

The 1st Folio version, which may be based on the company’s prompt book, cuts it down considerably (the “How all occasions do inform against me!” soliloquy is lost, as well as other admired passages), though most modern productions cut out even more.

The Mystery of the 1st Quarto

The text of the 1st Quarto was lost for centuries, a single printed copy turning up in a library in Suffolk in 1823, followed by another in Dublin over 30 years later. They remain the only two copies known. Its text is a mystery, as it differs greatly from the one you can now buy in a hundred different editions. Was it – as ‘1st Quarto’ suggests – the first version of Shakespeare’s famous play, or just a badly recorded and badly remembered version of the text that Shakespeare’s company played in 1600 or 1601, which happened to find its way into print before the authorised ‘2nd Quarto’?

When its text was published to a new audience in the 1820s, Q1’s peculiar readings, not least its version of the ‘To be or not to be’ speech, came as a rude shock –

To be, or not to be, ay, there’s the point,
To die, to sleep, is that all? Ay, all.
No, to sleep, to dream, ay, marry, there it goes,
For in that dream of death, when we awake,
And borne before an everlasting judge,
From whence no passenger ever returned,
The undiscovered country, at whose sight
The happy smile, and the accursèd damned.
But for this, the joyful hope of this,
Who’d bear the scorns and flattery of the world,
Scorned by the right rich, the rich cursed of the poor,
The widow being oppressed, the orphan wronged,
The taste of hunger, or a tyrant’s reign,
And thousand more calamities besides,
To grunt and sweat under this weary life,
When that he may his full quietus make
With a bare bodkin? Who would this endure,
But for a hope of something after death?
Which puzzles the brain, and doth confound the sense,
Which makes us rather bear those evils we have
Than fly to others that we know not of.
Ay, that. Oh, this conscience makes cowards of us all. -
Lady, in thy orisons be all my sins remembered.

- and it led to the text as a whole being generally derided. To its fiercest critics it belongs with those lambasted in the preface to the 1st Folio in 1623 as ‘stol’n and surreptitious copies, maimed and deformed by frauds and stealths of injurious impostors’.

Literary critics and editors have now been arguing about Q1’s status for nearly two centuries. Though there are many variations within these extremes, the three most vigorously championed theories are these:

‘Bad Quarto’ theory: this argues that Q1, though the first to be printed, in composition postdates the text we know as Q2, and is a garbled version of the play which Shakespeare’s company had first performed (we think) in 1600 – a poor ‘memorial reconstruction’ of the ‘official’ text, probably by the actor who had performed Marcellus and doubled as Lucianus, since these characters’ scenes seem to be accurately remembered, while the others are not. This actor, the argument runs, might have worked freelance for Shakespeare’s company, and then sold his inaccurate recollection to the eager publisher.

‘Evolution’ theory: this involves the notion of an even earlier ‘Hamlet’, the text of which has never been found. We know that a play of that name had been performed by Shakespeare’s company, the Chamberlain’s Men (possibly in co-production with Henslowe’s Admiral’s Men), at Newington Butts in 1594, and there are references to it as early as 1589. So this theory has it that Shakespeare evolved his famous play from this earlier one (be it his own, or Kyd’s, or some other writer’s work) rather than starting afresh in perhaps 1599 and working directly from the source in Belleforest’s Histoires Tragiquestic. This would make Q1 just a stage – perhaps the first major stage – in a relatively long evolution. It was hurried into print, perhaps even at the company’s own instigation, but before Shakespeare had completed his transformation. Q2 quickly followed in 1604 in an attempt to erase the memory of that transitional, and unsatisfactory version. F1 followed nearly twenty years later and represents the text substantially cut for performance, though it also offers some lines unknown to Q2 and many different word and line-readings.

‘Alternative Version’ theory: this argues that Q1 may be a poorly printed but otherwise fairly accurate record of a version of the play that was edited and modified from the form of the first Globe production in order, perhaps, to be toured with a reduced company (interestingly, while it refers to attendant lords and others it gives no speeches at all to servants, messengers, sailors or soldiers).

After nearly two centuries in which the fortunes of these three theories have fluctuated wildly, the ‘bad quarto/memorial reconstruction’ theory probably has the upper hand at the present time. The programme note for the 2010 National Theatre production confidently states: “The First Quarto … was a pirate edition, heavily truncated and possibly transcribed (badly) by the actor who played Marcellus at the Globe.” And in his fine book, 1599, James Shapiro goes even further:

‘one or more of those involved in the touring production, including the hired actor who played Marcellus (we know it was this actor because in putting the text together he remembered his own lines a lot better than he did anyone else’s) cobbled together from memory a 2,200 line version of the road production and sold it to publishers in London.’

Such certainty is questionable. Q1 certainly is very poorly printed, and it has many lines that sound unworthy of, or simply unlike, the Shakespeare we know, but it is a much better version of the play than it has often been thought. It is certainly completely produceable, and manages some developments in the play (particularly around Laertes’ return from France) in a more economical fashion than the longwinded development of Q2. ‘Piracy’ also leaves some questions unanswered. Why are Polonius and Reynaldo called ‘Corambis’ and ‘Montano’ - was the pirate’s memory really that poor? Why do some of the supposedly garbled passages make sense on their own terms? And why is Gertrude’s behaviour sometimes closer to the Belleforest source than to Q2? Zachary Lesser, a Professor of English at the University of Pennsylvania and author of ‘Hamlet After Q1’ has gone so far as to argue that Q1’s ‘To be or not to be’, for all its inelegance, has a rather stronger internal logic than the version so many of us have to heart.

In all these theories speculation is heaped upon speculation. Some proponents of ‘bad quarto’, for example, explain away ‘Corambis’ and ‘Montano’ by noting that the title page refers to a performance in Oxford University, one of whose honoured founders was considered to be Robert Pullen, whose Latin name was ‘Polenius’. In Shakespeare’s time the President of Corpus Christi College was John Rainolds (or Reynolds), well-known for his fierce enmity to the theatre. Thus the changes of name from ‘Polonius’ and ‘Reynaldo’ were conceived specifically for that performance in order to avoid offence. Well, maybe ...

Without adding materially to the speculation, it seems clear that there are several elements of difference in the Q1 text that point to some now irrecoverable but distinct validity in its composition, even if it is true that what came to be printed of it is a ‘poor, memorial reconstruction’.

One detail of Q1 that has influenced production for nearly two centuries is the stage direction during the ‘closet’ scene between Hamlet and Gertrude, Enter the Ghost in his night gowne, in place of the mere Enter the Ghost of the later editions. This detail has fed into notions, not all of them post-Freudian, that the climactic scene between Hamlet and his mother should be played either in, or very obviously adjacent to, the royal bedchamber. It is interesting to note in this context that Q1 does not use the word ‘closet’ in reference to this scene, though it is used several times in Q2 and the Folio; critics of the theatrical habit of having Hamlet and Gertrude circling a bed, or even tussling on it, have repeatedly insisted that a ‘closet’ is NOT a bedroom.

Another detail concerns Hamlet’s age. From the conversation between Hamlet and the Sexton in Q2’s version of the graveyard scene, we can determine that Hamlet must be approaching 30 (or older), given that he vividly remembers Yorick carrying him on his back:

> Here’s a skull now; this skull has lain in the earth three and twenty years.

The equivalent conversation in Q1 suggests that Hamlet need not have been more than 18 or 20 (assuming Yorick could have died while still in post as Court Jester):

> Look you, here’s a skull hath been here this dozen year.

My own feeling is that 18 or 20 is a far more credible age for Hamlet than 28 or 30, but why the disparity exists is just one more layer of the Q1 mystery. It may be relevant that Richard Burbage, Shakespeare’s first Hamlet, was 33 in 1600. By then he had been a leading actor for a decade; could he also have played Hamlet in the lost play as much as a decade earlier?

Speculation is irresistible!

This Text

For this production, I began my edit with the 1st Folio text. In one instance I borrowed from the structure of Q1 – I moved the ‘To be or not to be’ soliloquy forward to before Hamlet’s first meeting with Rosencrantz and Guildenstern and the arrival of the Players, and preferred several of Q2’s line and word readings to the Folio’s, but I restored virtually nothing cut by the Folio editors, and made many more cuts of my own.

Among those commonly made in modern productions, I lost Horatio’s description of Elsinore’s hectic preparations for war from the first scene, feeling that it is an element simply not followed through in the play (Claudius resolves the Fortinbras threat with one stiffly-worded letter to the King of Norway), and I gave the ‘Laertes rebellion’ similar treatment, for very similar reasons.
More controversially, perhaps, from the fifth scene I cut Hamlet’s declared intention to adopt an ‘antic disposition’. This was not to exclude feigned madness from Hamlet’s subsequent behaviour, only to release us from an absolute commitment to it. In the sources the murder of Hamlet’s father is public knowledge, so Hamlet’s feigned madness – ‘idiocy’ would be a better description – is his defence against Claudius who must be regarding him as a potential avenger. In Shakespeare’s play, Hamlet’s considered intention to ‘play mad’ has no such purpose and I question its value.

Determined to cast a young actor as Hamlet, I also adopted Q1’s ‘here’s a skull hath been here this dozen year’.

Sources

Central elements of the story go back to the twelfth century, to the account (in Latin) by the Danish poet, Saxo Grammaticus, of the legendary Danish revenger, Amleth. Amleth’s uncle, Feng, killed Amleth’s father (after the father had defeated the King of Norway in single combat) and then married his mother. In contrast to Shakespeare’s telling, the murder is not a secret and to protect himself from his uncle, and to disguise his planned vengeance, young Amleth feigns idiocy. While talking to his mother in her chamber, he is spied on by one of Feng’s councillors. Amleth discovers him, kills him and dismembers the body. Feng sends him to England in the company of two courtiers, who carry a secret commission instructing the English king to execute him. But he discovers this document and substitutes the courtiers names for his own. They are executed, while he returns to Denmark to avenge his father’s death, in gruesomely grand style, by killing his uncle and the whole of his court.

In the sixteenth century Saxo’s story was retold in French by François de Belleforest in Les Histoires Tragiques. We don’t know if Shakespeare read Saxo, but he was certainly familiar with Belleforest, even though that was not published in English until 1608. Belleforest introduced a few changes to the story. In particular, he tells that Hamlet’s mother had been having an affair with her brother-in-law before the murder of her husband but that, later, she repented of her actions and conspired with Hamlet to kill his uncle and gain the Danish throne.

Features of Shakespeare’s play such as Fortinbras, the Ghost and the play-within-a-play – the last two being popular elements of Renaissance revenge tragedy - are unknown in both Saxo and Belleforest, and so are presumed to have originated either with Shakespeare himself or with the author (if it was A.N.Other) of the lost Ur-Hamlet.

Part One

Scene 1

Enter Barnardo and Francisco

Barnardo  Who’s there?
Francisco  Nay, answer me: stand, and unfold yourself.
Barnardo  Long live the king.
Francisco  Barnardo?
Barnardo  He.
Francisco  You come most carefully upon your hour.
Barnardo  ’Tis now struck twelve, get thee to bed Francisco.
Francisco  For this relief much thanks: ’tis bitter cold,
      And I am sick at heart.
Barnardo  Have you had quiet guard?
Francisco  Not a mouse stirring.
Barnardo  Well, good night.
      If you do meet Marcellus,
      The rival of my watch,
      Bid him make haste.
Francisco  I think I hear him. Stand: who’s there?
Marcellus  [Off] Friends to this ground.
Horatio  [Off] And liegemen to the Dane.

Enter Marcellus, followed by Horatio

Marcellus  Holla Barnardo.
Barnardo  Welcome Marcellus. Say, what is Horatio there?
Horatio  A piece of him.
Barnardo  Welcome, good Horatio.
Marcellus  What, has this thing appear’d again tonight?
Francisco  I have seen nothing. Gentlemen, give you good night.
Barnardo  Farewell honest soldier.

Exit Francisco

Marcellus  Horatio says ’tis but our fantasy,
      And will not let belief take hold of him,
      Touching this dreaded sight twice seen of us.
      Therefore I have entreated him along
      With us to watch the minutes of this night,
      That if again this apparition come
      He may approve our eyes and speak to it.
Horatio  Tush, tush, ’twill not appear.

Marcellus  Then let us once again assail your ears
That are so fortified against our story
What we two nights have seen.

Horatio  Well, sit we down
And let me hear Barnardo speak of this.

Barnardo  Last night of all,
When yond same star that’s westward from the pole
Had made his course t’illume that part of heaven
Where now it burns -

Enter Ghost

Marcellus  Peace, break thee off, look, where it comes again.

Barnardo  In the same figure like the king that’s dead.

Marcellus  Thou art a scholar, speak to it Horatio.

Barnardo  Looks it not like the king? Mark it Horatio.

Horatio  Most like: it harrows me with fear and wonder.

Barnardo  It would be spoke to.

Marcellus  Question it Horatio.

Horatio  What art thou that usurp’st this time of night,
Together with that fair and warlike form
In which the majesty of buried Denmark
Did sometimes march. By heaven I charge thee speak!

Marcellus  It is offended.

Barnardo  See, it stalks away.

Horatio  Stay, speak, speak, I charge thee speak.

Exit Ghost

Marcellus  ’Tis gone and will not answer.

Barnardo  How now, Horatio? You tremble and look pale.
Is not this something more than fantasy?
What think you on’t?

Horatio  Before my God, I might not this believe
Without the sensible and true avouch
Of mine own eyes.

Marcellus  Is it not like the king?

Horatio  As thou art to thyself:
Such was the very armour he had on
When we the ambitious Norway combated.
So frown’d he once, when in an angry parle
He smote his sledded polaxe on the ice.
'Tis strange.

Marcellus
Thus twice before, and jump at this dead hour,
With martial stalk hath he gone by our watch.

Horatio
In what particular thought to work I know not,
But in the gross and scope of my opinion
This bodes some strange eruption to our state.
But soft, behold! Lo, where it comes again!

Re-enter Ghost
I'll cross it though it blast me. Stay, illusion!
If thou hast any sound, or use of voice,
Speak to me.
If there be any good thing to be done
That may to thee do ease and grace to me,
Speak to me.

Cock crows
If thou art privy to thy country's fate,
Which happily foreknowing may avoid, oh
Speak of it: stay, and speak! Stop it, Marcellus.

Marcellus
Shall I strike at it?

Horatio
Do if it will not stand.

Barnardo
'Tis here!

Horatio
'Tis here!

Marcellus
'Tis gone!

Exit Ghost

We do it wrong, being so majestical,
To offer it the show of violence,
For it is as the air, invulnerable,
And our vain blows malicious mockery.

Barnardo
It was about to speak when the cock crew.

Horatio
And then it started like a guilty thing
Upon a fearful summons. I have heard
The cock, that is the trumpet to the morn,
Doth with his lofty and shrill-sounding throat
Awake the god of day, and at his warning,
Whether in sea or fire, in earth or air,
The extravagant and erring spirit hies
To his confine. I do in part believe it.
But look, the morn in russet mantle clad
Walks o'er the dew of yon high eastward hill.
Break you your watch up, and by my advice
Let us impart what we have seen tonight
Unto young Hamlet, for upon my life
This spirit, dumb to us, will speak to him.
Let’s do, I pray, and I this morning know
Where we shall find him most conveniently.

Marcellus

Scene 2 (Act1 Sc2)

Enter Claudius, Gertrude, Hamlet, Polonius, Laertes, Reynaldo, Lords and Ladies

Claudius

Though yet of Hamlet our dear brother’s death
The memory be green, and that it us befitted
To bear our hearts in grief and our whole kingdom
To be contracted in one brow of woe,
Yet so far hath discretion fought with nature
That we with wisest sorrow think on him,
Together with remembrance of ourselves.
Therefore our sometime sister, now our Queen,
The imperial jointress to this warlike state,
Have we, as ’twere with a defeated joy -
With an auspicious and a dropping eye,
With mirth in funeral and with dirge in marriage,
In equal scale weighing delight and dole -
Taken to wife: nor have we herein barr’d
Your better wisdoms which have freely gone
With this affair along. For all, our thanks.
Now follows, that you know young Fortinbras
Holding a weak supposal of our worth,
Or thinking by our late dear brother’s death
Our state to be disjoint and out of frame,
He hath not fail’d to pester us with message,
Importing the surrender of those lands
Lost by his father, with all bonds of law,
To our most valiant brother. So much for him.
Thus much our business is: we have here writ
To Norway, uncle of young Fortinbras -
Who impotent and bed-rid scarcely hears
Of this his nephew’s purpose - to suppress
His further gait herein, in that the levies,
The lists and full proportions are all made
Out of his subject. Bid our ambassadors
Farewell, and let their haste commend their duty.

Reynaldo exits with the letter

And now, Laertes, what’s the news with you?
You told us of some suit, what is’t Laertes?
You cannot speak of reason to the Dane
And lose your voice. What wouldst thou beg Laertes,
That shall not be my offer, not thy asking?
The head is not more native to the heart,
The hand more instrumental to the mouth,
Than is the throne of Denmark to thy father.
What wouldst thou have Laertes?

Laertes
My dread Lord,
Your leave and favour to return to France,
From whence though willingly I came to Denmark
To show my duty in your coronation,
Yet now, I must confess, that duty done
My thoughts and wishes bend again toward France
And bow them to your gracious leave and pardon.

Claudius
Have you your father’s leave? What says Polonius?

Polonius
He hath, my Lord, wrung from me my slow leave
By laboursome petition, and at last
Upon his will I seal’d my hard consent.
I do beseech you give him leave to go.

Claudius
Take thy fair hour Laertes, time be thine
And thy best graces spend it at thy will.
But now my cousin Hamlet, and my son -

Hamlet
A little more than kin, and less than kind.

Claudius
How is it that the clouds still hang on you?

Hamlet
Not so my Lord, I am too much i’ the sun.

Gertrude
Good Hamlet, cast thy nighted colour off
And let thine eye look like a friend on Denmark.
Do not for ever with thy veiled lids
Seek for thy noble father in the dust.
Thou know’st ’tis common, all that lives must die,
Passing through nature to eternity.

Hamlet
Ay madam, it is common.

Gertrude
If it be,
Why seems it so particular with thee?

Hamlet
Seems madam? Nay it is, I know not ‘seems’.
’Tis not alone my inky cloak, good mother,
Nor customary suits of solemn black,
No, nor the fruitful river in the eye,
Nor the dejected ’havior of the visage,
Together with all forms, moods, shapes of grief
That can denote me truly. These indeed ‘seem’
For they are actions that a man might play:
But I have that within which passeth show,
These but the trappings and the suits of woe.

Claudius
’Tis sweet and commendable in your nature Hamlet,
To give these mourning duties to your father:
But you must know, your father lost a father,
That father lost, lost his, and the survivor bound
In filial obligation for some term
To do obsequious sorrow: but to persever
In obstinate condolement is a course
Of impious stubbornness, 'tis unmanly grief,
For what we know must be and is as common
As any the most vulgar thing to sense,
Why should we in our peevish opposition
Take it to heart? Fie, 'tis a fault to heaven,
A fault against the dead, a fault to nature,
To reason most absurd, whose common theme
Is death of fathers and who still hath cried,
From the first corse till he that died today,
'This must be so.' We pray you, throw to earth
This unprevailing woe and think of us
As of a father: for let the world take note,
You are the most immediate to our throne,
And with no less nobility of love
Than that which dearest father bears his son,
Do I impart toward you. For your intent
In going back to school in Wittenberg,
It is most retrograde to our desire:
And we beseech you, bend you to remain
Here, in the cheer and comfort of our eye,
Our chiefest courtier, cousin, and our son.

Gertrude

Let not thy mother lose her prayers, Hamlet:
I pray thee, stay with us, go not to Wittenberg.

Hamlet

I shall in all my best obey you, madam.

Claudius

Why, 'tis a loving and a fair reply.
Be as ourself in Denmark. Madam come,
This gentle and unforc'd accord of Hamlet
Sits smiling to my heart: in grace whereof
No jocund health that Denmark drinks today
But the great cannon to the clouds shall tell
And the king's rouse the heavens shall bruit again,
Respeaking earthly thunder. Come away.

Exeunt all but Hamlet

Hamlet

Oh that this too too solid flesh would melt,
Thaw and resolve itself into a dew:
Or that the Everlasting had not fix'd
His canon 'gainst self-slaughter. O God, O God!
How weary, stale, flat and unprofitable
Seem to me all the uses of this world?
Fie on’t? Oh fie, fie, ’tis an unweeded garden
That grows to seed: things rank and gross in nature
Possess it merely. That it should come to this:
But two months dead - nay, not so much, not two.
So excellent a king, that was to this
Hyperion to a satyr. So loving to my mother
That he might not beteem the winds of heaven
Visit her face too roughly. Heaven and earth
Must I remember? Why, she would hang on him
As if increase of appetite had grown
By what it fed on: and yet within a month?
Let me not think on’t: frailty, thy name is woman.
A little month, or ere those shoes were old
With which she follow’d my poor father’s body,
Like Niobe, all tears, why she, even she -
O, God, a beast that wants discourse of reason
Would have mourn’d longer! - married with mine uncle,
My father’s brother, but no more like my father
Than I to Hercules. Within a month,
Ere yet the salt of most unrighteous tears
Had left the flushing in her galled eyes,
She married. O most wicked speed, to post
With such dexterity to incestuous sheets:
It is not, nor it cannot come to good.
But break my heart, for I must hold my tongue.

Enter Horatio, Marcellus and Barnardo

Horatio    Hail to your Lordship.
Hamlet     I am glad to see you well.
           Horatio, or I do forget myself.
Horatio    The same my Lord, and your poor servant ever.
Hamlet     Sir, my good friend, I’ll change that name with you.
           What make you from Wittenberg Horatio? Marcellus.
Marcellus  My good Lord.
Hamlet     I am very glad to see you. Good even, sir.
           But what in faith make you from Wittenberg?
Horatio    A truant disposition, good my Lord.
Hamlet     I would not have your enemy say so,
           Nor shall you do mine ear that violence
           Against yourself: I know you are no truant.
           So what is your affair in Elsinore?
           We’ll teach you to drink deep ere you depart.
Horatio    My Lord, I came to see your father’s funeral.
Hamlet     I pray thee do not mock me, fellow-student,
I think it was to see my mother’s wedding.

Horatio  Indeed my Lord, it follow’d hard upon.

Hamlet  Thrift, thrift, Horatio. The funeral bak’d meats
Did coldly furnish forth the marriage tables.
Would I had met my dearest foe in heaven
Or ever I had seen that day, Horatio.
My father, methinks I see my father.

Horatio  Where my Lord?

Hamlet  In my mind’s eye, Horatio.

Horatio  He was a goodly King.

Hamlet  He was a man, take him for all in all.
I shall not look upon his like again.

Horatio  My Lord, I think I saw him yesternight.

Hamlet  Saw? Who?

Horatio  My Lord, the King your father.

Hamlet  The King my father?

Horatio  Season your admiration for a while with an attent ear
Till I may deliver upon the witness
Of these gentlemen, this marvel to you.

Hamlet  For God’s love, let me hear.

Horatio  Two nights together had these gentlemen,
Marcellus and Barnardo, on their watch
In the dead waste and middle of the night
Been thus encounter’d. A figure like your father,
Arm’d at all points exactly, cap-a-pe,
Appears before them and with solemn march
Goes slow and stately by them. Twice he walk’d
By their oppress’d and fear-surprised eyes,
Within his truncheon’s length, whilst they, distill’d
Almost to jelly with the act of fear,
Stand dumb and speak not to him. This to me
In dreadful secrecy impart they did
And I with them the third night kept the watch,
Where as they had deliver’d, both in time,
Form of the thing, each word made true and good,
The apparition comes. I knew your father:
These hands are not more like.

Hamlet  But where was this?

Marcellus  My Lord, upon the platform where we watch’d.

Hamlet  Did you not speak to it?
Horatio  My Lord, I did,
But answer made it none. Yet once methought
It lifted up its head and did address
Itself to motion, like as it would speak,
But even then the morning cock crew loud
And at the sound it shrunk in haste away
And vanish’d from our sight.

Hamlet  ’Tis very strange.

Horatio  As I do live my honour’d Lord, ’tis true,
And we did think it writ down in our duty
To let you know of it.

Hamlet  Indeed, indeed, sirs, but this troubles me.
Hold you the watch tonight?

Marc & Bern  We do, my Lord.

Hamlet  Arm’d, say you?

Marc & Bern  Arm’d, my Lord.

Hamlet  From top to toe?

Marc & Bern  My Lord, from head to foot.

Hamlet  Then saw you not his face?

Horatio  O yes, my Lord, he wore his beaver up.

Hamlet  What look’d he - frowningly?

Horatio  A countenance more in sorrow than in anger.

Hamlet  Pale, or red?

Horatio  Nay very pale.

Hamlet  And fix’d his eyes upon you?

Horatio  Most constantly.

Hamlet  I would I had been there.

Horatio  It would have much amaz’d you.

Hamlet  Very like, very like. Stay’d it long?

Horatio  While one with moderate haste might tell a hundred.

Marc & Bern  Longer, longer.

Horatio  Not when I saw’t.

Hamlet  His beard was grizzl’d - no?

Horatio  It was as I have seen it in his life,
A sable silver’d.

Hamlet  I’ll watch tonight: perchance ’twill walk again.
Horatio

I warrant it will.

Hamlet

If it assume my noble father’s person
I’ll speak to it, though Hell itself should gape
And bid me hold my peace. So, fare ye well:
Upon the platform ’twixt eleven and twelve,
I’ll visit you.

All

Our duty to your honour.

Hamlet

Your loves, as mine to you: farewell.

Exeunt all but Hamlet

My father’s spirit in arms? All is not well:
I doubt some foul play. Would the night were come.
Till then sit still my soul: foul deeds will rise,
Though all the earth o’erwhelm them to men’s eyes.

Exit

Scene 3 (Act1 Sc3)

Enter Laertes and Ophelia

Laertes

My necessaries are embark’d, farewell.
And sister, as the winds give benefit
And convoy is assistant, do not sleep
But let me hear from you.

Ophelia

Do you doubt that?

Laertes

For Hamlet, and the trifling of his favour,
Hold it a fashion and a toy in blood,
A violet in the youth of primy nature,
Forward, not permanent, sweet, not lasting,
The perfume and suppliance of a minute,
No more.

Ophelia

No more but so?

Laertes

Think it no more, for you must fear,
His greatness weigh’d, his will is not his own.
He may not, as unvalu’d persons do
Carve for himself, for on his choice depends
The sanctity and health of the whole state.
Then if he says he loves you
It fits your wisdom so far to believe it
As he in his particular act and place
May give his saying deed, which is no further
Than the main voice of Denmark goes withal.
Then weigh what loss your honour may sustain
If with too credent ear you list his songs,
Or lose your heart, or your chaste treasure open
To his unmaster’d importunity.
Fear it Ophelia, fear it my dear sister,
And keep you in the rear of your affection,
Out of the shot and danger of desire.
The chariest maid is prodigal enough
If she unmask her beauty to the moon.
Virtue itself ‘scapes not calumnious strokes,
The canker galls the infant of the spring
Too oft before her buttons be disclos’d
And in the morn and liquid dew of youth
Contagious blastments are most imminent.
Be wary then, best safety lies in fear:
Youth to itself rebels, though none else near.

Ophelia

I shall the effect of this good lesson keep
As watchman to my heart. But good my brother,
Do not as some ungracious pastors do,
Show me the steep and thorny way to heaven
While like a puff’d and reckless libertine
Himself the primrose path of dalliance treads
And reck not his own rede.

Laertes

O, fear me not. I stay too long.

Enter Polonius

Polonius

Yet here, Laertes? Aboard, aboard, for shame.
The wind sits in the shoulder of your sail
And you are stay’d for there. My blessing with you,
And these few precepts in thy memory
See thou character. Give thy thoughts no tongue,
Nor any unproportion’d thought his act.
Be thou familiar, but by no means vulgar.
The friends thou hast, and their adoption tried,
Grapple them to thy soul with hoops of steel,
But do not dull thy palm with entertainment
Of each new-hatch’d, unfledg’d comrade. Beware
Of entrance to a quarrel, but being in
Bear’t that th’ opposed may beware of thee.
Give every man thy ear, but few thy voice.
Take each man’s censure, but reserve thy judgment.
Costly thy habit as thy purse can buy,
But not express’d in fancy: rich, not gaudy,
For the apparel oft proclaims the man.
And they in France of the best rank and station
Are of a most select and generous chief in that.
Neither a borrower nor a lender be
For loan oft loses both itself and friend
And borrowing dulls the edge of husbandry.
This above all: to thine ownself be true
And it must follow, as the night the day,
Thou canst not then be false to any man.
Farewell: my blessing season this in thee.

Laertes     Most humbly do I take my leave my Lord.
Polonius   The time invites you. Go, your servants tend.
Laertes     Farewell Ophelia, and remember well
            What I have said to you.
Ophelia    'Tis in my memory lock'd
            And you yourself shall keep the key of it.
Laertes     Farewell.

Polonius   What is 't Ophelia, he hath said to you?
Ophelia    So please you, something touching the Lord Hamlet.
Polonius   Marry, well bethought.
            'Tis told me he hath very oft of late
            Given private time to you: and you yourself
            Have of your audience been most free and bounteous.
            If it be so, as so 'tis put on me -
            And that in way of caution - I must tell you
            You do not understand yourself so clearly
            As it behoves my daughter and your honour.
            What is 't between you? Give me up the truth.

Ophelia    He hath my Lord, of late made many tenders
            Of his affection to me.
Polonius   Affection, puh. You speak like a green girl,
            Unsifted in such perilous circumstance.
            Do you believe his 'tenders', as you call them?
Ophelia    I do not know my Lord, what I should think.
Polonius   Marry, I'll teach you. Think yourself a baby
            That you have ta'en these tenders for true pay
            Which are not sterling. Tender yourself more dearly
            Or - not to crack the wind of the poor phrase,
            Running it thus - you'll tender me a fool.
Ophelia    My Lord, he hath importun'd me with love
            In honourable fashion.
Polonius   Ay, fashion you may call it. Go to, go to.
Ophelia    And hath given countenance to his speech my Lord,
            With almost all the holy vows of heaven.
Polonius   Ay, springes to catch woodcocks. I do know
            When the blood burns, how prodigal the soul
            Lends the tongue vows. These blazes daughter,
Giving more light than heat, extinct in both,
You must not take for fire. From this time
Be somewhat scanter of your maiden presence.
Set your entreatments at a higher rate
Than a command to parley. For Lord Hamlet,
Believe so much in him, that he is young
And with a larger tether may he walk
Than may be given you. In few Ophelia,
Do not believe his vows, they are but brokers,
Breathing like sanctified and pious bawds
The better to beguile. This is for all:
I would not, in plain terms, from this time forth
Have you so slander any moment leisure
As to give words or talk with the Lord Hamlet.
Look to‘t, I charge you. Mend your ways.

Ophelia I shall obey, my Lord.

Exeunt severally

Scene 4 (Act1 Sc4)

The Platform

Enter Hamlet, Horatio, Marcellus & Barnardo

Hamlet The air bites shrewdly: is it very cold?
Horatio It is a nipping and an eager air.
Hamlet What hour now?
Horatio I think it lacks of twelve.
Marcellus No, it is struck.
Horatio Indeed I heard it not. Then it draws near the season
Wherein the spirit holds his wont to walk.

A flourish of trumpets, and ordnance shot off

What does this mean, my Lord?

Hamlet The king doth wake tonight and takes his rouse,
Keeps wassail and the swaggering up-spring reels,
And as he drains his draughts of Rhenish down
The kettle-drum and trumpet thus bray out
The triumph of his pledge.

Horatio Is’t a custom?

Hamlet Ay, marry, is’t:
But to my mind, though I am a native here
And to the manner born, it is a custom
More honour’d in the breach than the observance.
Marcellus: Look, my Lord, it comes!

Enter Ghost

Hamlet: Angels and ministers of grace defend us! Be thou a spirit of health or goblin damn’d, Bring with thee airs from Heaven or blasts from Hell, Thou comest in such a questionable shape That I will speak to thee. I’ll call thee Hamlet, King, Father, Royal Dane. Oh, answer me. Let me not burst in ignorance, but tell Why thy canoniz’d bones, hearsed in death, Have burst their cerements, why the sepulchre Wherein we saw thee quietly inter’d Hath op’d his ponderous and marble jaws, To cast thee up again? What may this mean That thou, dead corse, again in complete steel Revisit’st thus the glimpses of the moon, Making night hideous, and we fools of nature So horridly to shake our disposition With thoughts beyond the reaches of our souls?

Ghost beckons Hamlet

Horatio: It beckons you to go away with it.

Marcellus: Look with what courteous action It waves you to a more removed ground: But do not go with it.

Horatio: No, by no means.

Hamlet: It will not speak, then I will follow it.

Horatio: Do not my Lord.

Hamlet: Why, what should be the fear? I do not set my life at a pin’s fee, And for my soul, what can it do to that, Being a thing immortal as itself? It waves me forth again: I’ll follow it.

Horatio: What if it tempt you toward the flood my Lord, Or to the dreadful summit of the cliff That beetles o’er his base into the sea, And there assume some other horrible form Which might deprive your sovereignty of reason And draw you into madness? Think of it.

Hamlet: It waves me still. Go on, I’ll follow thee.

Marcellus: You shall not go, my Lord.

Hamlet: Hold off your hand.

Horatio: Be rul’d, you shall not go.
Hamlet

My fate cries out,
And makes each petty artery in this body
As hardy as the Nemean lion's nerve.
Still am I call'd? Unhand me, gentlemen.
By heaven, I'll make a ghost of him that lets me.
I say away! Go on, I'll follow thee.

Exeunt Ghost and Hamlet

Horatio

He waxes desperate with imagination.

Marcellus

Let's follow, 'tis not fit thus to obey him.

Horatio

Have after. To what issue will this come?

Marcellus

Something is rotten in the state of Denmark.

Horatio

Heaven will direct it.

Marcellus

Nay, let's follow him.

Exeunt

Scene 5 (Act1 Sc5)

Enter Ghost and Hamlet

Hamlet

Where wilt thou lead me? Speak, I'll go no further.

Ghost

Mark me.

Hamlet

I will.

Ghost

My hour is almost come
When I to sulphurous and tormenting flames
Must render up myself.

Hamlet

Alas poor ghost.

Ghost

Pity me not, but lend thy serious hearing
To what I shall unfold.

Hamlet

Speak, I am bound to hear.

Ghost

So art thou to revenge, when thou shalt hear.

Hamlet

What?

Ghost

I am thy father's spirit,
Doom'd for a certain term to walk the night
And for the day confin'd to fast in fires
Till the foul crimes done in my days of nature
Are burnt and purg'd away. But that I am forbid
To tell the secrets of my prison-house
I could a tale unfold whose lightest word
Would harrow up thy soul, freeze thy young blood,
Make thy two eyes like stars start from their spheres
And each particular hair to stand on end.
Like quills upon the fretful porpentine.
But this eternal blazon must not be
To ears of flesh and blood. List, Hamlet, oh list,
If thou didst ever thy dear father love -

Hamlet
O God!

Ghost
Revenge his foul and most unnatural murder.

Hamlet
Murder?

Ghost
Murder most foul, as in the best it is,
But this most foul, strange and unnatural.

Hamlet
Haste, haste me to know’t, that I with wings as swift
As meditation or the thoughts of love
May sweep to my revenge.

Ghost
I find thee apt,
And duller shouldst thou be than the fat weed
That roots itself in ease on Lethe wharf
Wouldst thou not stir in this. Now Hamlet, hear:
’Tis given out that sleeping in mine orchard,
A serpent stung me: so the whole ear of Denmark
Is by a forged process of my death
Rankly abus’d: for know, thou noble youth,
The serpent that did sting thy father’s life
Now wears his crown.

Hamlet
O my prophetic soul, mine uncle?

Ghost
Ay, that incestuous, that adulterate beast,
With witchcraft of his wit, with traitorous gifts -
Oh wicked wit and gifts, that have the power
So to seduce - won to his shameful lust
The will of my most seeming-virtuous queen.
O Hamlet, what a falling-off was there,
From me, whose love was of that dignity
That it went hand in hand even with the vow
I made to her in marriage, and to decline
Upon a wretch whose natural gifts were poor
To those of mine.
But virtue, as it never will be mov’d,
Though lewdness court it in a shape of heaven,
So lust, though to a radiant angel link’d,
Will sate itself in a celestial bed
And prey on garbage.
But, soft, methinks I scent the morning air,
Brief let me be. Sleeping within mine orchard,
My custom always of the afternoon,
Upon my secure hour thy uncle stole
With juice of cursed hebenon in a vial,
And in the porches of my ears did pour
The leperous distilment, whose effect
Holds such an enmity with blood of man
That swift as quicksilver it courses through
The natural gates and alleys of the body
And with a sudden vigour it doth posset
And curd, like eager droppings into milk,
The thin and wholesome blood. So did it mine,
And a most instant tetter bark’d about,
Most lazar-like with vile and loathsome crust,
All my smooth body.
Thus was I, sleeping, by a brother’s hand
Of life, of crown, of Queen, at once dispatch’d:
Cut off even in the blossoms of my sin,
Unhouse’d, disappointed, unanel’d,
No reckoning made, but sent to my account
With all my imperfections on my head.
O horrible, O horrible, most horrible.
If thou hast nature in thee bear it not Let not the royal bed of Denmark be
A couch for luxury and damned incest.
But howsoever thou pursuest this act,
Taint not thy mind, nor let thy soul contrive
Against thy mother aught: leave her to heaven
And to those thorns that in her bosom lodge,
To prick and sting her. Fare thee well at once,
The glow-worm shows the matin to be near
And ’gins to pale his uneffectual fire.
Adieu, adieu, Hamlet. Remember me.

Hamlet
O all you host of heaven! O earth, what else?
And shall I couple hell? O, fie, hold, my heart,
And you my sinews, grow not instant old,
But bear me stiffly up. Remember thee?
Yea, from the table of my memory
I’ll wipe away all trivial fond records,
All saws of books, all forms, all pressures past
That youth and observation copied there,
And thy commandment all alone shall live
Within the book and volume of my brain,
Unmix’d with baser matter: yes, yes, by heaven.
O most pernicious woman!
O villain, villain, smiling damned villain!
My tables - meet it is I set it down,
That one may smile, and smile, and be a villain:
At least I’m sure it may be so in Denmark.
Marcellus, Horatio  [Within] My Lord, my Lord -

Marcellus  [Within] Lord Hamlet -

Hamlet  Hillo, ho, ho, boy; come, bird, come.

Enter Horatio, Marcellus & Barnardo

Marcellus  How is’t my noble Lord?

Horatio  What news my Lord?

Hamlet  O, wonderful.

Horatio  Good my Lord tell it.

Hamlet  No, you’ll reveal it.

Horatio  Not I my Lord, by heaven.

Marcellus  Nor I my Lord.

Hamlet  How say you then, would heart of man once think it?

But you’ll be secret?

Horatio, Marcellus  Ay, by heaven, my Lord.

Hamlet  There’s ne’er a villain dwelling in all Denmark

But he’s an arrant knave.

Horatio  There needs no ghost my Lord, come from the grave

To tell us this.

Hamlet  Why right, you are i’ the right,

And so, without more circumstance at all

I hold it fit that we shake hands and part:

You as your business and desires shall point you,

For every man ha’s business and desire,

Such as it is, and for mine own poor part,

Look you, I’ll go pray.

Horatio  These are but wild and whirling words my Lord.

Hamlet  I’m sorry they offend you, heartily,

Yes ‘faith, heartily.

Horatio  There’s no offence my Lord.

Hamlet  Yes by Saint Patrick, but there is Horatio,

And much offence too. Touching this vision here,

It is an honest ghost, that let me tell you:

For your desire to know what is between us

O’ermaster ‘t as you may. And now good friends,

As you are friends, scholars and soldiers,

Give me one poor request.

Horatio  What is’t my Lord? We will.
Hamlet

Never make known what you have seen tonight.

Horatio, Marcellus

My Lord we will not.

Hamlet

Nay, but swear't.

Barnardo

In faith my Lord, not I.

Marcellus

Nor I my Lord, in faith.

Horatio

Nor I.

Hamlet

Upon my sword.

Marcellus

We have sworn my Lord, already.

Hamlet

Indeed, upon my sword, indeed.

So grace and mercy at your most need help you, Swear.

Ghost

[Off] Swear!

Horatio

O day and night, but this is wondrous strange!

Hamlet

And therefore as a stranger give it welcome.

There are more things in heaven and earth, Horatio, Than are dreamt of in our philosophy. But come.

The time is out of joint: O cursed spite, That ever I was born to set it right.

Nay, come, let's go together.

Exeunt

Scene 6 (Act2 Sc1)

A room in Polonius’ house

Enter Polonius and Reynaldo

Polonius

Give him this money, and these notes, Reynaldo.

Reynaldo

I will my Lord.

Polonius

You shall do marv’lous wisely, good Reynaldo, Before you visit my son, to make inquire Of his behaviour.

Reynaldo

My Lord I did intend it.

Polonius

Marry, well said, very well said. Look you sir, Inquire me first what Danes there are in Paris, And how, and who, what means, and where they keep, What company, at what expense: and finding By this encompassment and drift of question That they do know my son, come you more nearer. Take you, as ’twere, some distant knowledge of him, As thus, “I know his father and his friends,
And in part him." Do you mark this, Reynaldo?

Reynaldo Ay, very well, my Lord.

Polonius " - and in part him. But," you may say, “not well:
But if’t be he I mean, he’s very wild,
Addicted so and so,” and there put on him
What forgeries you please: marry, none so rank
As may dishonour him, take heed of that,
But, sir, such wanton, wild and usual slips
As are most known to youth and liberty.

Reynaldo As gaming my Lord.

Polonius Ay, or drinking, fencing, swearing, quarrelling,
Drabbing: you may go so far.

Reynaldo My Lord that would dishonour him.

Polonius ’Faith no, as you may season it in the charge.

Reynaldo But my good Lord -

Polonius Wherefore should you do this?

Reynaldo Ay my Lord, I would know that.

Polonius Marry sir, here’s my drift,
And I believe it is a fetch of warrant:
You laying these slight sullies on my son,
Your party in converse, him you would sound,
He closes with you in this consequence,
“Good sir,” or so, or “friend,” or “gentleman,”
According to the phrase or the addition
Of man and country.

Reynaldo Very good, my Lord.

Polonius And then, sir, does he this - he does - what was I about to say? By the mass, I was about to say something: where did I leave?

Reynaldo At ‘closes in the consequence,’ at ‘friend or so,’ and ‘gentleman.’

Polonius At ‘closes in the consequence’ - ay, marry,
He closes thus: “I know the gentleman,
I saw him yesterday, with such, or such,
And, as you say, there he was a’ gaming,
There falling out at tennis:’ or perchance,
‘I saw him enter such a house of sale,’
Videlicet, a brothel, or so forth. See you now?
Your bait of falsehood takes this carp of truth:
And thus do we of wisdom and of reach,
With windlasses and with assays of bias,
By indirections find directions out.
You have me, have you not?
Reynaldo
  My Lord I have.

Polonius
  God be wi’ you, fare you well.

Reynaldo
  Good my Lord.

Polonius
  Observe his inclination in yourself.

Reynaldo
  I shall my Lord.

Polonius
  And let him ply his music.

Reynaldo
  Well my Lord.

Exit Reynaldo

Enter Ophelia

Polonius
  How now Ophelia, what’s the matter?

Ophelia
  O my Lord, my Lord, I have been so affrighted.

Polonius
  With what i’ the name of God?

Ophelia
  My Lord, as I was sewing in my closet,
  Lord Hamlet, with his doublet all unbrac’d,
  No hat upon his head, his stockings foul’d,
  Ungarter’d and down-gyved to his ankle,
  Pale as his shirt, his knees knocking each other,
  And with a look so piteous in purport
  As if he had been loosed out of Hell
  To speak of horrors, he comes before me.

Polonius
  Mad for thy love?

Ophelia
  My Lord, I do not know, but truly I do fear it.

Polonius
  What said he?

Ophelia
  He took me by the wrist and held me hard.
  Then goes he to the length of all his arm
  And with his other hand thus o’er his brow,
  He falls to such perusal of my face
  As he would draw it. Long stay’d he so.
  At last, a little shaking of mine arm
  And thrice his head thus waving up and down,
  He rais’d a sigh so piteous and profound
  As it did seem to shatter all his bulk
  And end his being. That done, he lets me go,
  And with his head over his shoulder turn’d,
  He seem’d to find his way without his eyes,
  For out o’ doors he went without their help,
  And to the last, bended their light on me.

Polonius
  This is the very ecstasy of love,
  Whose violent property fordoes itself
  And leads the will to desperate undertakings.
  I am sorry that with better heed and judgment
I had not quoted him: I fear’d he did but trifle
And meant to wreck thee. Come, go we to the king.
This must be known, which being kept close might move
More grief to hide, than hate to utter love.

Exeunt

Between the scenes a Lord gives Polonius a report from the Ambassadors to Norway

Scene 7 (Act2 Sc2)

A room in the castle

Enter Claudius, Gertrude, Rosencrantz, Guildenstern and Attendants

Claudius
Welcome, dear Rosencrantz and Guildenstern.
Moreover that we much did long to see you,
The need we have to use you did provoke
Our hasty sending. Something have you heard
Of Hamlet’s transformation: so I call it
Since not th’exterior nor the inward man
Resembles that it was. What it should be
More than his father’s death, that thus hath put him
So much from th’understanding of himself,
I cannot dream of. I entreat you both,
That being of so young days brought up with him,
That you vouchsafe your rest here in our court
Some little time: so by your companies
To draw him on to pleasures, and to gather
So much as from occasions you may glean,
Whether aught to us unknown afflicts him thus,
That open’d lies within our remedy.

Gertrude
Good gentlemen, he hath much talk’d of you,
And sure I am two men there are not living
To whom he more adheres. If it will please you
To show us so much gentry and good will
As to expend your time with us awhile
Your visitation shall receive such thanks
As fits a king’s remembrance.

Rosencrantz
Both your majesties
Might, by the sovereign power you have of us,
Put your dread pleasures more into command
Than to entreaty.

Guildenstern
But we both obey,
And here give up ourselves, in the full bent
To lay our services freely at your feet,
To be commanded.
Claudius
Thanks Rosencrantz, and gentle Guildenstern.

Gertrude
Thanks Guildenstern, and gentle Rosencrantz.
And I beseech you instantly to visit
My too much changed son. Go, some of you,
And bring the gentlemen where Hamlet is.

Guildenstern
Heavens make our presence and our practices
Pleasant and helpful to him.

Gertrude
Amen.

Exeunt Rosencrantz, Guildenstern, and some Attendants
Enter Polonius and Ophelia

Polonius
[Giving report] The ambassadors from Norway, my good Lord,
Are joyfully return’d. The King makes fair
Return of greetings and desires.

Claudius
[Reads] His nephew’s levies appear’d to him
To be a preparation ‘gainst the Polack:
But, better look’d into, he truly found
It was against ourselves: he sends out arrests
On Fortinbras, which he in brief obeys,
And vows before his uncle never more
To give the assay of arms against us.
The old King, overcome with joy,
Now lends him his commission to employ
The soldiers so levied against the Polack:
With an entreaty that it might please us
To give quiet pass through our dominions
For this enterprise.
Thou still hast been the father of good news.

Polonius
Have I, my Lord? Assure you my good liege,
I hold my duty, as I hold my soul,
Both to my God and to my gracious king:
And I do think, or else this brain of mine
Hunts not the trail of policy so sure
As it hath us’d to do, that I have found
The very cause of Hamlet’s transformation.

Claudius
Oh speak of that, that do I long to hear.

Gertrude
I doubt it is no other but the main:
His father’s death, and our o’erhasty marriage.

Polonius
My liege, and madam, to expostulate
What majesty should be, what duty is,
Why day is day, night night, and time is time,
Were nothing but to waste night, day and time.
Therefore, since brevity is the soul of wit,
And tediousness the limbs and outward flourishes,
I will be brief. Your noble son is mad:
Mad call I it, for to define true madness,
What is’t but to be nothing else but mad?
But let that go.

Gertrude More matter, with less art.

Polonius Madam, I swear I use no art at all.
That he is mad, ‘tis true: ‘tis true ‘tis pity,
And pity ‘tis ‘tis true: a foolish figure,
But farewell it, for I will use no art.
Mad let us grant him then: and now remains
That we find out the cause of this effect,
Or rather say, the cause of this defect,
For this effect defective comes by cause:
Thus it remains, and the remainder thus. Perpend.
I have a daughter - have while she is mine -
Who in her duty and obedience mark,
Hath given me this: now gather, and surmise.

[Reads] ‘To the celestial and my soul’s idol, the most beautified
Ophelia,’ - That’s an ill phrase, a vile phrase, ‘beautified’ is a vile phrase: but you shall hear. Thus: ‘In her excellent white bosom, these, &c.’

Gertrude Came this from Hamlet to her?

Polonius Good madam, stay awhile, I will be faithful.
Doubt thou the stars are fire,
Doubt that the sun doth move,
Doubt truth to be a liar,
But never doubt I love.
O dear Ophelia, I am ill at these numbers,
I have not art to reckon
my groans: but that I love thee best, oh most best, believe it.
Adieu. Thine evermore most dear lady, whilst this machine is to him, Hamlet.
This, in obedience, hath my daughter shown me,
And more above hath his solicitings,
As they fell out by time, by means and place,
All given to mine ear.

Claudius But how hath she receiv’d his love?

Polonius What do you think of me?

Claudius As of a man faithful and honourable.

Polonius I would fain prove so. But what might you think,
When I had seen this hot love on the wing -
As I perceiv’d it, I must tell you that,
Before my daughter told me - what might you,
Or my dear Majesty your Queen here, think,
If I had play’d the desk or table-book,
Or look’d upon this love with idle sight,
What might you think? No, I went round to work,
‘Lord Hamlet is a prince, out of thy star,
This must not be’: and then I precepts gave her,
That she should lock herself from his resort,
Admit no messengers, receive no tokens.
Which done, she took the fruits of my advice,
And he, repuls’d - a short tale to make -
Fell into a sadness, then into a fast,
Thence to a watch, thence into a weakness,
Thence to a lightness, and by this declension,
Into the madness wherein now he raves
And all we mourn for.

Claudius  Do you think ’tis this?

Gertrude  It may be, very likely.

Polonius  Hath there been such a time - I’d fain know that -
That I have positively said ”Tis so,’
When it prov’d otherwise?

Claudius  Not that I know.

Polonius  Take this from this, if this be otherwise.

Claudius  How may we try it further?

Polonius  You know, sometimes he walks four hours together
Here in the lobby.

Gertrude  So he does indeed.

Polonius  At such a time I’ll loose my daughter to him.
Be you and I behind an arras then,
Mark the encounter: if he love her not
And be not from his reason fall’n thereon,
Let me be no assistant for a state,
But keep a farm and carters.

Claudius  We will try it.

Gertrude  For your part Ophelia, I do wish
That your good beauties be the happy cause
Of Hamlet’s wildness: so shall I hope your virtues
Will bring him to his wonted way again,
To both your honours.

Ophelia  Madam, I wish it may.

Enter Hamlet, reading on a book

Gertrude  But look, where now the poor wretch comes reading.

Polonius  Away, I do beseech you, both away:
I’ll board him presently. O, give me leave.
Exit King and Queen, and Ophelia

How does my good Lord Hamlet?

Hamlet  Well, God-a-mercy.

Polonius  Do you know me my Lord?

Hamlet  Excellent well, you are a fishmonger.

Polonius  Not I my Lord.

Hamlet  Then I would you were so honest a man.

Polonius  Honest, my Lord?

Hamlet  Ay sir, to be honest, as this world goes, is to be one man picked out of ten thousand.

Polonius  That’s very true my Lord.

Hamlet  For if the sun breed maggots in a dead dog – have you a daughter?

Polonius  I have my Lord.

Hamlet  Let her not walk i’ the sun: conception is a blessing, but not as your daughter may conceive. Friend, look to ’t.

Polonius  [Aside] How say you by that? Still harping on my daughter. Yet he knew me not at first, he said I was a fishmonger. He is far gone, far gone: and truly in my youth I suffered much extremity for love, very near this. - What do you read my Lord?

Hamlet  Words, words, words.

Polonius  What is the matter my Lord?

Hamlet  Between who?

Polonius  I mean, the matter that you read my Lord.

Hamlet  Slanders, sir: for the satirical rogue says here that old men have grey beards, that their faces are wrinkl’d, their eyes purging thick amber, or plum-tree gum, and that they have a plentiful lack of wit, together with most weak hams. All which sir, though I most powerfully and potently believe, yet I hold it not honesty to have it thus set down, for you yourself sir, should be old as I am, if like a crab you could go backward.

Polonius  [Aside] Though this be madness, yet there is method in’t. Will you walk out of the air my Lord?

Hamlet  Into my grave?

Polonius  Indeed that is out o’ the air. [Aside] How pregnant sometimes his replies are. A happiness that often madness hits on. - My honourable Lord, I will most humbly take my leave of you.

Hamlet  You cannot sir, take from me any thing that I will more willingly part withal: except my life, except my life, except my life.
Polonius

Fare you well, my Lord.

Hamlet

To be, or not to be: that is the question.
Whether ‘tis nobler in the mind to suffer
The slings and arrows of outrageous fortune,
Or to take arms against a sea of troubles
And by opposing end them? To die: to sleep,
No more: and by a sleep to say we end
The heart-ache and the thousand natural shocks
That flesh is heir to? ‘Tis a consummation
Devoutly to be wish’d. To die, to sleep:
To sleep, perchance to dream: ay, there’s the rub,
For in that sleep of death what dreams may come
When we have shuffl’d off this mortal coil
Must give us pause. There’s the respect
That makes calamity of so long life,
For who would bear the whips and scorns of time,
The oppressor’s wrong, the proud man’s contumely,
The pangs of despis’d love, the law’s delay,
The insolence of office and the spurns
That patient merit of the unworthy takes,
When he himself might his quietus make
With a bare bodkin? Who would these fardels bear,
To grunt and sweat under a weary life,
But that the dread of something after death,
The undiscover’d country from whose bourn
No traveller returns, puzzles the will
And makes us rather bear those ills we have
Than fly to others that we know not of.
Thus conscience does make cowards of us all,
And thus the native hue of resolution
Is sicklied o’er with the pale cast of thought,
And enterprises of great pith and moment
With this regard their currents turn awry
And lose the name of action.

Enter Ophelia

Soft you now,
The fair Ophelia? Nymph, in thy orisons
Be all my sins remember’d.

Ophelia

Good my Lord,
How does your honour for this many a day?

Hamlet

I humbly thank you, well, well, well.

Ophelia

My Lord, I have remembrances of yours
That I have longed long to re-deliver.
I pray you, now receive them.
Hamlet
No, no, I never gave you ought.

Ophelia
My honour’d Lord, you know right well you did,
And with them words of so sweet breath compos’d
As made the things more rich: their perfume lost
Take these again, for to the noble mind
Rich gifts wax poor when givers prove unkind.
There, my Lord.

Hamlet
Ha, ha, are you honest?

Ophelia
My Lord?

Hamlet
Are you fair?

Ophelia
What means your Lordship?

Hamlet
That if you be honest and fair, your honesty should admit no discourse to your beauty.

Ophelia
Could beauty my Lord, have better commerce than with honesty?

Hamlet
Ay truly, for the power of beauty will sooner transform honesty from what it is to a bawd than the force of honesty can translate beauty into his likeness. This was sometime a paradox, but now the time gives it proof. I did love you once.

Ophelia
Indeed my Lord, you made me believe so.

Hamlet
You should not have believ’d me: for virtue cannot so inoculate our old stock but we shall relish of it. I lov’d you not.

Ophelia
I was the more deceiv’d.

Hamlet
Get thee to a nunnery. Why wouldst thou be a breeder of sinners?
I am myself indifferent honest, but yet I could accuse me of such things that it were better my mother had not borne me. I am very proud, revengeful, ambitious, with more offences at my beck than I have thoughts to put them in, imagination to give them shape, or time to act them in. What should such fellows as I do crawling between earth and heaven? We are arrant knaves all, believe none of us. Go thy ways to a nunnery. Where’s your father?

Ophelia
At home, my Lord.

Hamlet
Let the doors be shut upon him, that he may play the fool no where but in’s own house. Farewell.

Ophelia
O, help him, you sweet heavens.

Hamlet
If thou dost marry, I’ll give thee this plague for thy dowry: be thou as chaste as ice, as pure as snow, thou shalt not escape calumny. Get thee to a nunnery. Go, farewell. Or if thou wilt needs marry, marry a fool, for wise men know well enough what monsters you make of them. To a nunnery, go, and quickly too. Farewell.

Ophelia
O heavenly powers, restore him!
I have heard of your paintings too, well enough. God has given you one face, and you make yourselves another: you jig, you amble, and you lisp, you nick-name God’s creatures and make your wantonness your ignorance. Go to, I’ll no more on’t, it hath made me mad. I say, we will have no more marriages. Those that are married already, all but one, shall live, the rest shall keep as they are. To a nunnery, go.

Exit

Ophelia

O what a noble mind is here o’erthrown!
The courtier’s, soldier’s, scholar’s, eye, tongue, sword,
The expectancy and rose of the fair state,
The glass of fashion and the mould of form,
The observ’d of all observers, quite, quite down.
And I, of ladies most deject and wretched,
That suck’d the honey of his music vows,
Now see that noble and most sovereign reason
Like sweet bells jangl’d, out of tune and harsh:
That unmatch’d form and feature of blown youth
Blasted with ecstasy. Oh woe is me,
To have seen what I have seen, see what I see.

Re-enter Claudius and Polonius

Love? His affections do not that way tend,
Nor what he spake, though it lack’d form a little,
Was not like madness. There’s something in his soul
O’er which his melancholy sits on brood
And I do fear the hatch and the disclose
Will be some danger. He shall with speed to England,
For the demand of our neglected tribute.
Haply the seas and countries different
With variable objects shall expel
This something-settl’d matter in his heart.
What think you on’t?

Polonius

It shall do well: but yet do I believe
The origin and commencement of this grief
Sprung from neglected love. How now, Ophelia?
You need not tell us what Lord Hamlet said,
We heard it all. My Lord, do as you please,
But, if you hold it fit this night,
Let his queen mother all alone entreat
Him to show his griefs. Let her be round with him,
And I’ll be plac’d, so please you, in the ear
Of all their conference. If she find him not,
To England send him, or confine him where
Your wisdom best shall think.

Claudius

It shall be so:
'Madness' in great ones must not unwatch'd go.

Scene 8 (Act2 Sc2)

Outside the castle

Enter Hamlet

Then enter Rosencrantz and Guildenstern

Rosencrantz [Calling] My Lord!

Guildenstern [Calling] Lord Hamlet!

Rosencrantz God save you, sir.

Guildenstern My honour'd Lord.

Rosencrantz My most dear Lord.

Hamlet My excellent good friends. How dost thou, Guildenstern? Ah Rosencrantz. Good lads, how do ye both?

Rosencrantz As the indifferent children of the earth.

Guildenstern Happy in that we are not over-happy:

On fortune's cap we are not the very button.

Hamlet Nor the soles of her shoe?

Rosencrantz Neither my Lord.

Hamlet Then you live about her waist, or in the middle of her favours?

Guildenstern 'Faith, her privates we.

Hamlet In the secret parts of Fortune? Oh most true, she is a strumpet.

What's the news?

Rosencrantz None my Lord, but that the world's grown honest.

Hamlet Then is doomsday near. But your news is not true. Let me question more in particular: what have you, my good friends, deserv'd at the hands of Fortune, that she sends you to prison hither?

Guildenstern Prison, my Lord?

Hamlet Denmark's a prison.

Rosencrantz Then is the world one.

Hamlet A goodly one, in which there are many confines, wards and dungeons, Denmark being one o' the worst.

Rosencrantz We think not so, my Lord.

Hamlet Why then, 'tis none to you, for there is nothing either good or bad, but thinking makes it so: to me it is a prison.
Rosencrantz: Why then, your ambition makes it one: 'tis too narrow for your mind.

Hamlet: O God, I could be bounded in a nutshell and count myself a king of infinite space were it not that I have bad dreams. But in the beaten way of friendship, what make you at Elsinore?

Rosencrantz: To visit you my Lord, no other occasion.

Hamlet: Beggar that I am, I am even poor in thanks, but I thank you. But sure dear friends, my thanks are too dear a halfpenny. Were you not sent for? Is it your own inclining? Is it a free visitation? Come, deal justly with me: come, come, nay, speak.

Guildenstern: What should we say, my Lord?

Hamlet: Why anything, but to the purpose. You were sent for. There is a kind of confession in your looks which your modesties have not craft enough to colour. I know the good King and Queen have sent for you.

Rosencrantz: To what end, my Lord?

Hamlet: That you must teach me. Nay then, I have an eye of you. If you love me, hold not off.

Guildenstern: My Lord, we were sent for.

Hamlet: I will tell you why, so shall my anticipation prevent your discovery and your secrecy to the King and Queen moult no feather. I have of late – but wherefore I know not - lost all my mirth, forgone all custom of exercise; and indeed it goes so heavily with my disposition that this goodly frame, the earth, seems to me a sterile promontory, this most excellent canopy, the air, look you, this brave o’erhanging firmament, this majestical roof fretted with golden fire, why, it appears no other thing to me than a foul and pestilent congregation of vapours. What a piece of work is a man? How noble in reason, how infinite in faculty, in form and moving how express and admirable? In action how like an angel, in apprehension how like a god? The beauty of the world, the paragon of animals! And yet, to me, what is this quintessence of dust? Man delights not me: no, nor woman neither, though by your smiling you seem to say so.

Rosencrantz: My Lord, there was no such stuff in my thoughts.

Hamlet: Why did you laugh then, when I said ‘man delights not me’?

Rosencrantz: To think, my Lord, if you delight not in man, what lenten entertainment the players shall receive from you: we coted them on the way, and hither are they come to offer you service.

Hamlet: He that plays the king shall be welcome, his majesty shall have tribute of me. What players are they?
Rosencrantz Even those you were wont to take delight in, the tragedians of the city.

Hamlet How chances it they travel? Do they not hold the same estimation they did when I was in the city? Are they not so follow’d?

Rosencrantz No, indeed, are they not.

Hamlet It is not very strange, for mine uncle is King of Denmark, and those that would make mows at him while my father liv’d, give twenty, forty, fifty, an hundred ducats a-piece for his picture in little. ’Sblood, there is something in this more than natural, if philosophy could find it out.

Flourish of trumpets off

Guildenstern There are the players.

Hamlet Gentlemen, you are welcome to Elsinore. Your hands, come then: but, I tell you, my uncle-father and aunt-mother are deceiv’d.

Guildenstern In what, my dear Lord?

Hamlet I am but mad north-north-west: when the wind is southerly I know a hawk from a handsaw.

Enter Polonius

Polonius Well be with you, gentlemen!

Hamlet Hark you, Guildenstern, that great baby you see there is not yet out of his swaddling-clouts.

Rosencrantz Happily he’s the second time come to them, for they say an old man is twice a child.

Hamlet I will prophesy he comes to tell me of the players, mark it. You say right, sir: o’ Monday morning, ’twas so indeed.

Polonius My Lord I have news to tell you.

Hamlet My Lord I have news to tell you. When Roscius was an actor in Rome -

Polonius The actors are come hither, my Lord.

Hamlet Buzz, buzz.

Polonius Upon mine honour.

Hamlet Then came each actor on his ass -

Polonius The best actors in the world, either for tragedy, comedy, history, pastoral, pastoral-comical, historical-pastoral, tragical-historical, tragical-comical-historical-pastoral, scene indivisible, or poem unlimited: Seneca cannot be too heavy, nor Plautus too light. These are the only men.

Hamlet O Jephthah, judge of Israel, what a treasure hadst thou?

Polonius What a treasure had he my Lord?
Hamlet

Why, ‘One fair daughter and no more, The which he loved passing well.’

Polonius

[Aside] Still on my daughter.

Hamlet

Am I not i’ the right, old Jephthah?

Polonius

If you call me Jephthah my Lord, I have a daughter that I love passing well.

Hamlet

Nay, that follows not. But look, where my abridgement comes.

Enter the Players

You are welcome masters, welcome all. I am glad to see thee well. O, my old friend? Thy face is valanc’d since I saw thee last: com’st thou to beard me in Denmark? What, my young lady and mistress? Masters, you are all welcome. Come, give us a taste of your quality, come, a passionate speech.

First Player

What speech, my Lord?

Hamlet

I heard thee speak me a speech once, but it was never acted, or if it was not above once, for the play I remember pleas’d not the million, ’twas caviare to the general: but it was - as I receiv’d it - an excellent play, well digested in the scenes, set down with as much modesty as cunning. One speech in it I chiefly lov’d: ’twas Aeneas’ tale to Dido, where he speaks of Priam’s slaughter. If it live in your memory begin at this line …

The rugged Pyrrhus, like the Hyrcanian beast - it is not so: it begins with Pyrrhus -

The rugged Pyrrhus, he whose sable arms,
Black as his purpose, did the night resemble
When he lay couched in the ominous horse,
Hath now this dread and black complexion smear’d
With heraldry more dismal: head to foot
Now is he total gules, horridly trick’d
With blood of fathers, mothers, daughters, sons,
Bak’d and impasted with the parching streets,
That lend a tyrannous and damned light
To their Lord’s murder: roasted in wrath and fire,
And thus o’er-sized with coagulate gore,
With eyes like carbuncles, the hellish Pyrrhus
Old grandsire Priam seeks.
So, proceed you.

Polonius

’Fore God, my Lord, well spoken, with good accent and good discretion.

First Player

Anon he finds him

Striking too short at Greeks, his antique sword,
Rebellious to his arm, lies where it falls,
Repugnant to command. Unequal match’d,
Pyrrhus at Priam drives, in rage strikes wide,
But with the whiff and wind of his fell sword
The unnerved father falls. Then senseless Ilium,
Seeming to feel this blow, with flaming top
Stoops to his base, and with a hideous crash
Takes prisoner Pyrrhus’ ear: for lo, his sword
Which was declining on the milky head
Of reverend Priam, seem’d i’ the air to stick:
So, as a painted tyrant Pyrrhus stood,
And like a neutral to his will and matter, did nothing.
But, as we often see against some storm,
A silence in the heavens, the rack stand still,
The bold winds speechless, and the orb below
As hush as death, anon the dreadful thunder
Doth rend the region. So after Pyrrhus’ pause,
A roused vengeance sets him new a-work,
And never did the Cyclops’ hammers fall
On Mars’s armour, forg’d for proof eterne,
With less remorse than Pyrrhus’ bleeding sword
Now falls on Priam.
Out, out, thou strumpet-Fortune, all you gods,
In general synod take away her power,
Break all the spokes and fellies from her wheel
And bowl the round nave down the hill of heaven,
As low as to the fiends.

Polonius This is too long.

Hamlet It shall to the barber’s, with your beard. Prithee, say on: he’s for a jig or a tale of bawdry, or he sleeps. Say on: come to Hecuba.

First Player But who, O who, had seen the mobl’d queen -

Hamlet ‘The mobl’d queen’?

Polonius That’s good, ‘mobl’d queen’ is good.

First Player Run barefoot up and down, threatening the flame
With bisson rheum, a clout upon that head
Where late the diadem stood, and for a robe
About her lank and all o’er-teemed loins,
A blanket in the alarm of fear caught up,
Who this had seen, with tongue in venom steep’d,
‘Gainst Fortune’s state would treason have pronounc’d:
But if the gods themselves did see her then
When she saw Pyrrhus make malicious sport
In mincing with his sword her husband’s limbs,
The instant burst of clamour that she made
Would have made milch the burning eyes of heaven
And passion in the gods.
Polonius  Look, where he has not turn’d his colour and has tears in’s eyes.
Pray you, no more.

Hamlet  ’Tis well: I’ll have thee speak out the rest soon. Good my Lord will you see the players well bestow’d? Do you hear, let them be well us’d, for they are the abstracts and brief chronicles of the time. After your death you were better have a bad epitaph than their ill report while you live.

Polonius  My Lord I will use them according to their desert.

Hamlet  God’s bodykins man, much better. Use every man after his desert, and who should ’scape whipping? Use them after your own honour and dignity. The less they deserve, the more merit is in your bounty. Take them in.

Polonius  Come, sirs.

Hamlet  Follow him, friends: we’ll hear a play this night.

Exit Polonius with all the Players

My good friends, I’ll leave you till night: you are welcome to Elsinore.

Rosencrantz  Good my Lord.

Hamlet  Ay, so God be wi’ ye.

Exeunt Rosencrantz and Guildenstern

O what a rogue and peasant slave am I.
Is it not monstrous that this player here,
But in a fiction, in a dream of passion,
Could force his soul so to his own conceit
That from her working all his visage warm’d,
Tears in his eyes, distraction in’s aspect,
A broken voice, and his whole function suit
With forms to his conceit? And all for nothing,
For Hecuba.
What’s Hecuba to him, or he to Hecuba,
That he should weep for her? What would he do,
Had he the motive and the cue for passion
That I have? He would drown the stage with tears
And cleave the general ear with horrid speech,
Make mad the guilty and appal the free,
Confound the ignorant and amaze indeed
The very faculty of eyes and ears. Yet I,
A dull and muddy-mettl’d rascal, peak
Like John-a-dreams, unpregnant of my cause
And can say nothing: no, not for a king,
Upon whose property and most dear life
A damn’d defeat was made. Am I a coward?
Who calls me villain, breaks my pate across,
Tweaks me by the nose, gives me the lie i’ the throat
As deep as to the lungs, who does me this?
Ha? ’Swounds, I should take it: for it cannot be
But I am pigeon-liver’d and lack gall
To make oppression bitter, or ere this
I should have fatted all the region kites
With this slave’s offal. Bloody, bawdy villain,
Remorseless, treacherous, lecherous, kindless villain.
O, vengeance!
Why, what an ass am I? This is most brave,
That I, the son of a dear father murder’d,
Prompted to my revenge by Heaven and Hell,
Must like a whore, unpack my heart with words,
And fall a-cursing like a very drab,
A scullion. Fie upon’t, foh! About, my brains.
I have heard that guilty creatures sitting at a play
Have by the very cunning of the scene
Been struck so to the soul that presently
They have proclaim’d their malefactions.
For murder, though it have no tongue, will speak
With most miraculous organ. I’ll have these players
Play something like the murder of my father
Before mine uncle. I’ll observe his looks,
I’ll tent him to the quick. If he but blench,
I know my course. The spirit that I have seen
May be the Devil: and the Devil hath power
T’assume a pleasing shape, yea and perhaps
Out of my weakness, and my melancholy,
As he is very potent with such spirits,
Abuses me to damn me. I’ll have grounds
More relative than this: the play’s the thing
Wherein I’ll catch the conscience of the King.

Scene 9 (Act3 Sc2)

A Hall in the Castle. Night

_The Players set their space. Enter Hamlet with 1st, 2nd & 3rd Players_

Hamlet

Speak the speech, I pray you, as I pronounc’d it to you, trippingly on the tongue. If you mouth it, as many of your players do, I had as lief the town-crier spoke my lines. Nor do not saw the air too much with your hand, thus, but use all gently, for in the very torrent, tempest, and, as I may say, whirlwind of your passion, you must acquire and beget a temperance that may give it smoothness.

First Player

I warrant your honour.
Hamlet: Be not too tame neither, but let your own discretion be your tutor. Suit the action to the word, the word to the action, with this special observance, that you o’erstep not the modesty of nature: for anything so overdone is from the purpose of playing, whose end, both at the first and now, was and is to hold as ‘twere the mirror up to nature, to show virtue her own feature, scorn her own image, and the very age and body of the time his form and pressure. Oh there be players that I have seen play, and heard others praise, that neither having the accent of Christians nor the gait of Christian, pagan, nor no man, have so strutted and bellow’d that I have thought some of nature’s journeymen had made men and not made them well, they imitated humanity so abominably.

First Player: I hope we have reformed that indifferently with us, sir.

Hamlet: O reform it altogether. Go, make you ready. And let those that play your clowns speak no more than is set down for them.

Exeunt Players

Enter severally Polonius, Rosencrantz and Guildenstern

Polonius: And the queen too, and that presently.

Hamlet: Bid the players make haste.

Exit Polonius

Will you two help to hasten them?

Ros & Guild: We will my Lord.

Exeunt Rosencrantz and Guildenstern. Enter Horatio

Hamlet: What, Horatio?

Horatio: Here sweet Lord, at your service.

Hamlet: Horatio, thou art e’en as just a man
As e’er my conversation cop’d withal.

Horatio: O my dear Lord.

Hamlet: Nay, do not think I flatter,
For what advancement may I hope from thee
That no revenue hast but thy good spirits,
To feed and clothe thee? Why should the poor be flatter’d?
Since my dear soul was mistress of her choice
And could of men distinguish, her election
Hath seal’d thee for herself, for thou hast been
As one, in suffering all, that suffers nothing.
A man that Fortune’s buffets and rewards
Hast ta’en with equal thanks. And blest are those Whose blood and judgment are so well commingl’d,
That they are not a pipe for Fortune’s finger
To sound what stop she please. Give me that man
That is not passion’s slave, and I will wear him
In my heart’s core, ay, in my heart of heart,
As I do thee. Something too much of this.
There is a play tonight before the king.
One scene of it comes near the circumstance
Which I have told thee of my father’s death.
I prithee, when thou seest that act afoot,
Observe mine uncle: if his occulted guilt
Do not itself unkennel in one speech,
It is a damned ghost that we have seen,
And my imaginations are as foul
As Vulcan’s stithy. Give him heedful note,
And after we will both our judgments join
In censure of his seeming.

Horatio

Well, my Lord:
If he steal aught the whilst this play is playing,
And ’scape detecting, I will pay the theft.

Hamlet

They are coming to the play, I must be idle.
Get you a place.

A flourish. Enter Claudius, Gertrude, Polonius, Ophelia and others

Claudius

How fares our cousin Hamlet?

Hamlet

Excellent, i’ faith, of the chameleon’s dish. I eat the air, promise-cramm’d. You cannot feed capons so.

Claudius

I have nothing with this answer Hamlet, these words are not mine.

Hamlet

No, nor mine now. [To Polonius] My Lord, you play’d once i’ the university, you say?

Enter Rosencrantz & Guildenstern

Polonius

That I did my Lord, and was accounted a good actor.

Hamlet

What did you enact?

Polonius

I did enact Julius Caesar. I was kill’d i’ the Capitol. Brutus killed me.

Hamlet

It was a brute part of him to kill so capital a calf there. Be the players ready?

Rosencrantz

Ay, my Lord, they stay upon your patience.

Gertrude

Come hither my good Hamlet, sit by me.

Hamlet

No good mother, here’s metal more attractive.

Polonius

[To Claudius] Oh ho, do you mark that?

Hamlet

Lady, shall I lie in your lap?

Ophelia

No, my Lord.
Hamlet I mean, my head upon your lap?
Ophelia Ay, my Lord.
Hamlet Do you think I meant country matters?
Ophelia I think nothing, my Lord.
Hamlet That’s a fair thought to lie between maids’ legs.
Ophelia What is, my Lord?
Hamlet Nothing.
Ophelia You are merry, my Lord.
Hamlet Who, I?
Ophelia Ay my Lord.
Hamlet O God, your only jig-maker. What should a man do but be merry?
For look you how cheerfully my mother looks, and my father died within’s two hours.
Ophelia Nay, ‘tis two months my Lord.
Hamlet So long? Nay then, let the devil wear black, for I’ll have a suit of sables. Oh heavens, die two months ago and not forgotten yet?
Then there’s hope a great man’s memory may outlive his life half a year.

The Prologue enters

Ophelia What means this play, my Lord?
Hamlet Marry, it is miching mallecho, it means mischief.
Prologue For us, and for our tragedy,
Here stooping to your clemency,
We beg your hearing patiently.

Exit

Hamlet Is this a prologue, or the posy of a ring?
Ophelia ’Tis brief my Lord.
Hamlet As woman’s love.

Enter two Players, Duke & Duchess

Gonzago Full thirty times hath Phoebus’ cart gone round
Neptune’s salt wash and Tellus’ orbed ground,
And thirty dozen moons with borrow’d sheen
About the world have times twelve thirties been,
Since love our hearts and Hymen did our hands
Unite commutual in most sacred bands.

Duchess So many journeys may the sun and moon
Make us again count o’er ere love be done.
But woe is me, you are so sick of late,
So far from cheer and from your former state,
That I distrust you. Yet though I distrust, Discomport you my Lord, it nothing must.

Gonzago 'Faith, I must leave thee love, and shortly too,
My operant powers their functions leave to do:
And thou shalt live in this fair world behind,
Honour’d, belov’d: and haply one as kind
For husband shalt thou –

Duchess Oh confound the rest!
Such love must needs be treason in my breast.
In second husband let me be accurst.
None wed the second but who kill’d the first.

Hamlet [Aside to Ophelia] That’s wormwood.

Duchess The instances that second marriage move
Are base respects of thrift, but none of love.
A second time I kill my husband dead,
When second husband kisses me in bed.

Gonzago I do believe you think what now you speak,
But what we do determine oft we break.
What to ourselves in passion we propose,
The passion ending, doth the purpose lose.
This world is not for aye, nor ‘tis not strange
That even our loves should with our fortunes change:
But, orderly to end where I begun,
Our wills and fates do so contrary run
That our devices still are overthrown,
Our thoughts are ours, their ends none of our own.
So think thou wilt no second husband wed,
But die thy thoughts when thy first Lord is dead.

Duchess Nor earth to me give food, nor heaven light,
Sport and repose lock from me day and night.
Both here and hence pursue me lasting strife,
If once a widow, ever I be wife.

Hamlet If she should break it now!

Gonzago ‘Tis deeply sworn. Sweet, leave me here awhile.
My spirits grow dull, and fain I would beguile
The tedious day with sleep.

Duchess Sleep rock thy brain,
And never come mischance between us twain.

Hamlet Madam how like you this play?

Gertrude The Lady doth protest too much, methinks.

Hamlet O, but she’ll keep her word.
Claudius What do you call the play?

Hamlet The Mousetrap. The play is the image of a murder done in Vienna: Gonzago is the duke’s name, his wife, Baptista. You shall see anon, ’tis a knavish piece of work: but what o’ that? Your majesty, and we that have free souls, it touches us not. Let the gall’d jade wince, our withers are unwrung.

Enter Lucianus

This is one Lucianus, nephew to the king.

Ophelia You are as good as a chorus my Lord.

Hamlet I could interpret between you and your love, if I could see the puppets dallying.

Ophelia You are keen my Lord, you are keen.

Hamlet It would cost you a groaning to take off my edge.

Ophelia Still better, and worse.

Hamlet So you mis-take your husbands. Begin, murderer, pox, leave thy damnable faces and begin. Come, the croaking raven doth bellow for revenge.

Lucianus Thoughts black, hands apt, drugs fit, and time agreeing,
Confederate season, else no creature seeing,
Thou mixture rank of midnight weeds collected,
With Hecate’s ban, thrice blasted, thrice infected,
Thy natural magic and dire property
On wholesome life usurp immediately.

Pours the poison into the sleeper’s ear

Hamlet He poisons him i’ the garden for’s estate. His name’s Gonzago:
the story is extant, and writ in very choice Italian. You shall see anon how the murderer gets the love of Gonzago’s wife.

Ophelia The King rises.

Hamlet What, frightened with false fire?

Gertrude How fares my Lord?

Polonius Give o’er the play.

Claudius Give me some light. Away.

All Lights, lights, lights!

Exeunt all but Hamlet and Horatio

Hamlet Why, let the stricken deer go weep,
The hart ungalled play,
For some must watch, while some must sleep:
So runs the world away.
Would not this, sir – if the rest of my fortunes turn Turk with me –
get me a fellowship in a cry of players?
Horatio  Half a share.
Hamlet  A whole one, I. Oh good Horatio, I’ll take the ghost’s word for a thousand pound. Didst perceive?
Horatio  Very well, my Lord.
Hamlet  Upon the talk of the poisoning?
Horatio  I did very well note him.

Re-enter Rosencrantz and Guildenstern

Hamlet  Ah, ha! Come, some music. Come, the recorders, For if the king like not the comedy, Why then, belike, he likes it not, perdy. Come, some music.
Guildenstern  Good my Lord, vouchsafe me a word with you.
Hamlet  Sir, a whole history.
Guildenstern  The king sir –
Hamlet  Ay sir, what of him?
Guildenstern  Is in his retirement marvellous distemper’d.
Hamlet  With drink sir?
Guildenstern  No my Lord, with choler.
Hamlet  Your wisdom should show itself more richer to signify this to his doctor, for for me to put him to his purgation would perhaps plunge him into far more choler.
Guildenstern  Good my Lord, put your discourse into some frame and start not so wildly from my affair.
Hamlet  I am tame sir: pronounce.
Guildenstern  The Queen your mother, in most great affliction of spirit hath sent me to you.
Hamlet  You are welcome.
Guildenstern  Nay good my Lord, this courtesy is not of the right breed. If it shall please you to make me a wholesome answer, I will do your mother’s commandment: if not, your pardon and my return shall be the end of my business.
Hamlet  Sir I cannot.
Guildenstern  What my Lord?
Hamlet  Make you a wholesome answer: my wit’s diseas’d. But sir, such answer as I can make, you shall command: or rather, as you say, my mother: therefore no more but to the matter. My mother, you say?
Rosencrantz  Then thus she says: your behaviour hath struck her into amazement and admiration.

Hamlet  Oh wonderful son, that can so astonish a mother. But is there no sequel at the heels of this mother’s admiration?

Rosencrantz  She desires to speak with you in her closet, ere you go to bed.

Hamlet  We shall obey, were she ten times our mother. Have you any further trade with us?

Rosencrantz  My Lord you once did love me.

Hamlet  So I do still, by these pickers and stealers.

Rosencrantz  Good my Lord what is your cause of distemper? You do surely bar the door upon your own liberty, if you deny your griefs to your friend.

Hamlet  Sir I lack advancement.

Rosencrantz  How can that be, when you have the voice of the king himself for your succession in Denmark?

Hamlet  Ay, but ‘while the grass grows’ – the proverb is something musty.

---

Enter two Players with recorders

O, the recorders. Let me see one. [To Guildenstern] To withdraw with you – why do you go about to recover the wind of me, as if you would drive me into a toil?

Guildenstern  O my Lord, if my duty be too bold my love is too unmannerly.

Hamlet  I do not well understand that. Will you play upon this pipe?

Guildenstern  My Lord I cannot.

Hamlet  I pray you.

Guildenstern  Believe me, I cannot.

Hamlet  I do beseech you.

Guildenstern  I know no touch of it my Lord.

Hamlet  ’Tis as easy as lying: govern these ventages with your fingers and thumb, give it breath with your mouth, and it will discourse most eloquent music. Look you, these are the stops.

Guildenstern  But these cannot I command to any utterance of harmony, I have not the skill.

Hamlet  Why, look you now, how unworthy a thing you make of me. You would play upon me, you would seem to know my stops, you would pluck out the heart of my mystery, you would sound me from my lowest note to the top of my compass: and there is much music, excellent voice, in this little organ, yet cannot you make it speak. ’Sblood, do you think I am easier to be play’d on than a pipe?

---

Enter Polonius
God bless you sir!

Polonius  My Lord the queen would speak with you, and presently.

Hamlet  Do you see yonder cloud that’s almost in shape of a camel?

Polonius  By the mass, and ’tis like a camel indeed.

Hamlet  Methinks it is like a weasel.

Polonius  It is back’d like a weasel.

Hamlet  Or like a whale?

Polonius  Very like a whale.

Hamlet  Then I will come to my mother by and by. They fool me to the top of my bent. I will come by and by.

Polonius  I will say so.

Hamlet  By and by is easily said.

Exit Polonius

Leave me friends.

Exeunt all but Hamlet

’Tis now the very witching time of night,
When churchyards yawn and Hell itself breathes out
Contagion to this world. Now could I drink hot blood
And do such bitter business as the day
Would quake to look on. Soft now, to my mother.
Oh heart, lose not thy nature, let not ever
The soul of Nero enter this firm bosom.
Let me be cruel, not unnatural.
I will speak daggers to her, but use none.
My tongue and soul in this be hypocrites,
How in my words soever she be shent,
To give them seals, never my soul consent!
Part Two

Scene 10 (Act3 Sc3)

A Room in the Castle

Enter severally Claudius, Rosencrantz, and Guildenstern

---

Claudius
I like him not, nor stands it safe with us
To let his madness range. Therefore prepare you,
I your commission will forthwith dispatch
And he to England shall along with you.
The terms of our estate may not endure
Hazard so dangerous as doth hourly grow
Out of his lunacies.

Guildenstern
We will ourselves provide.
Most holy and religious fear it is
To keep those many many bodies safe
That live and feed upon your Majesty.

Rosencrantz
The single and peculiar life is bound,
With all the strength and armour of the mind,
To keep itself from noyance: but much more,
That spirit upon whose weal depend and rest
The lives of many. The cease of majesty
Dies not alone, but like a gulf doth draw
What’s near it with it. Never alone
Did the King sigh, but with a general groan.

Claudius
Arm you, I pray you, to this speedy voyage,
For we will fetters put about this fear
Which now goes too free-footed.

Rosencrantz
We will haste us.

Exeunt Rosencrantz and Guildenstern

---

Polonius
My Lord he’s going to his mother’s closet.
Behind the arras I’ll convey myself
To hear the process. I’ll warrant she’ll tax him home.
Fare you well my liege: I’ll call upon you
Ere you go to bed, and tell you what I know.

Claudius
Thanks dear my Lord.

Exit Polonius

---

O my offence is rank, it smells to heaven,
It hath the primal eldest curse upon’t,
A brother’s murder. Pray can I not,
Though inclination be as sharp as will:
My stronger guilt defeats my strong intent,
And like a man to double business bound
I stand in pause where I shall first begin
And both neglect. What if this cursed hand
Were thicker than itself with brother’s blood,
Is there not rain enough in the sweet heavens
To wash it white as snow? Whereto serves mercy
But to confront the visage of offence?
And what’s in prayer but this two-fold force,
To be forestalled ere we come to fall,
Or pardon’d being down? Then I’ll look up:
My fault is past. But oh, what form of prayer
Can serve my turn? ‘Forgive me my foul murder’?
That cannot be, since I am still possess’d
Of those effects for which I did the murder:
My crown, mine own ambition, and my Queen.
May one be pardon’d and retain the offence?
In the corrupted currents of this world
Offence’s gilded hand may shove by justice,
But ’tis not so above,
There is no shuffling, there the action lies
In his true nature, and we ourselves compell’d,
Even to the teeth and forehead of our faults,
To give in evidence. What then? What rests?
Try what repentance can. What can it not?
Yet what can it when one cannot repent?
O wretched state! O bosom,
Art more engag’d. Help Angels, make assay.
Bow stubborn knees, and heart with strings of steel
Be soft as sinews of the newborn babe.
All may be well.

He kneels

Enter Hamlet

Now might I do it, pat, now he is a-praying,
And now I’ll do’t, and so he goes to Heaven,
And so am I reveng’d? That would be scann’d:
A villain kills my father, and for that,
I his sole son do this same villain send
To Heaven? Why, this is hire and salary, not revenge.
He took my father grossly, full of bread,
With all his crimes broad blown, as fresh as May.
Am I then reveng’d,
To take my uncle in the purging of his soul,
When he is fit and season’d for his passage? No.
Up sword, and know thou a more horrid hent,
When he is drunk asleep, or in his rage,
Or in the incestuous pleasure of his bed,
At gaming, swearing, or about some act
That has no relish of salvation in’t.
Then trip him, that his heels may kick at Heaven,
And that his soul may be as damn’d and black
As Hell, whereto it goes. My mother stays:
This physic but prolongs thy sickly days.

Exit

Claudius
My words fly up, my thoughts remain below:
Words without thoughts never to Heaven go.

Exit

Scene 11 (Act3 Sc4/Act4 Sc1)
The Queen’s Closet

Enter Gertrude and Polonius

Polonius
He will come straight. Look you lay home to him:
Tell him his pranks have been too broad to bear with
And that your grace hath screen’d and stood between Much heat and him. I’ll silence me even here.
Pray you, be round with him.

Hamlet
[Within] Mother, mother, mother!

Gertrude
I’ll warrant you, fear me not.
Withdraw, I hear him coming.

Enter Hamlet

Hamlet
Now, mother, what’s the matter?

Gertrude
Hamlet, thou hast thy father much offended.

Hamlet
Mother, you have my father much offended.

Gertrude
Come, come, you answer with an idle tongue.

Hamlet
Go, go, you question with a wicked tongue.

Gertrude
Why, how now Hamlet!

Hamlet
What’s the matter now?

Gertrude
Have you forgot me?

Hamlet
No, by the rood, not so:
You are the Queen, your husband’s brother’s wife,
And - would it were not so - you are my mother.

Gertrude
Nay, then I’ll set those to you that can speak.

Hamlet
Come, come, and sit you down, you shall not budge.
You go not till I set you up a glass
Where you may see the inmost part of you.

Gertrude
What wilt thou do? Thou wilt not murder me?
Help, help, ho!
Polonius: What hoa, help, help!

Hamlet: How now, a rat? Dead for a ducat, dead!

Polonius: O I am slain.

Gertrude: O me, what hast thou done?

Hamlet: Nay I know not: is it the King?

Lifts up the arras and discovers Polonius

Gertrude: O what a rash and bloody deed is this?

Hamlet: A bloody deed, almost as bad good mother, As kill a king, and marry with his brother.

Gertrude: As kill a king?

Hamlet: Ay lady, 'twas my word.

Thou wretched, rash, intruding fool! Farewell, I took thee for thy better. Take thy fortune, Thou find'st to be too busy is some danger.

Leave wringing of your hands: peace, sit you down And let me wring your heart, for so I shall If it be made of penetrable stuff, If damned custom have not braz'd it so That it is proof and bulwark against sense.

Gertrude: What have I done, that thou darest wag thy tongue In noise so rude against me?

Hamlet: Such an act That blurs the grace and blush of modesty, Calls virtue hypocrite, takes off the rose From the fair forehead of an innocent love And sets a blister there. Makes marriage-vows As false as dicers' oaths. Oh, such an act As from the body of contraction plucks The very soul, and sweet religion makes A rhapsody of words.

Gertrude: Ay me, what act, That roars so loud, and thunders in the index?

Hamlet: Look here upon this picture - my father. See what a grace was seated on his brow, Hyperion's curls, the front of Jove himself, An eye like Mars, to threaten and command, A combination and a form indeed, Where every god did seem to set his seal To give the world assurance of a man. This was your husband. Look you now, what follows: Here is your husband, like a mildew'd ear Blasting his wholesome brother. Have you eyes?
Could you on this fair mountain leave to feed,
And batten on this moor? Ha? Have you eyes?
You cannot call it love, for at your age
The hey-day in the blood is tame, it’s humble,
And waits upon the judgment: and what judgment
Would step from this to this?
O shame! where is thy blush? Rebellious hell,
If thou canst mutine in a matron’s bones,
To flaming youth let virtue be as wax,
And melt in her own fire.

Gertrude
O Hamlet, speak no more:
Thou turn’st mine eyes into my very soul,
And there I see such black and grained spots
As will not leave their tinct.

Hamlet
Nay, but to live
In the rank sweat of an enseamed bed,
Stew’d in corruption, honeying and making love
Over the nasty sty.

Gertrude
O speak to me no more,
These words like daggers enter in mine ears.
No more sweet Hamlet.

Hamlet
A murderer and a villain,
A slave that is not twentieth part the tithe
Of your precedent Lord. A vice of kings,
A cutpurse of the empire and the rule,
That from a shelf the precious diadem stole
And put it in his pocket.

Gertrude
No more.

Hamlet
A king of shreds and patches -

Enter the Ghost
Save me, and hover o’er me with your wings,
You heavenly guards. What would your gracious figure?

Gertrude
Alas, he’s mad.

Hamlet
Do you not come your tardy son to chide,
That laps’d in time and passion lets go by
The important acting of your dread command? Oh, say.

Ghost
Do not forget: this visitation
Is but to whet thy almost blunted purpose.
But, look, amazement on thy mother sits.
O step between her and her fighting soul:
Speak to her Hamlet.

Hamlet
How is it with you Lady?
Gertrude  Alas, how is't with you,
    That you do bend your eye on vacancy
And with the incorporeal air do hold discourse?
O gentle son,
Upon the heat and flame of thy distemper
Sprinkle cool patience. Whereon do you look?

Hamlet  On him, on him: look you, how pale he glares.
His form and cause conjoin'd, preaching to stones
Would make them capable. Do not look upon me,
Lest with this piteous action you convert
My stern effects: then what I have to do
Will want true colour, tears perchance for blood.

Gertrude  To whom do you speak this?

Hamlet  Do you see nothing there?

Gertrude  Nothing at all, yet all that is I see.

Hamlet  Nor did you nothing hear?

Gertrude  No, nothing but ourselves.

Hamlet  Why, look you there, look, how it steals away,
My father, in his habit as he liv'd.
Look where he goes even now out at the portal.

Exit Ghost

Gertrude  This is the very coinage of your brain:
This bodiless creation ecstasy is very cunning in.

Hamlet  Ecstasy?
My pulse, as yours, doth temperately keep time
And makes as healthful music: for love of grace,
Lay not that flattering unction to your soul
That not your trespass, but my madness speaks:
It will but skin and film the ulcerous place,
Whilst rank corruption mining all within
Infests unseen. Confess yourself to Heaven,
Repent what's past, avoid what is to come,
And do not spread the compost on the weeds
To make them ranker. Forgive me this my virtue,
For in the fatness of these pursy times
Virtue itself of vice must pardon beg,
Yea, curb and woo for leave to do him good.

Gertrude  O Hamlet, thou hast cleft my heart in twain.

Hamlet  O throw away the worser part of it
And live the purer with the other half.
Good night: but go not to mine uncle's bed.
Assume a virtue, if you have it not.
Refrain tonight,
And that shall lend a kind of easiness
To the next abstinence. Once more, good night:
And when you are desirous to be bless’d,
I’ll blessing beg of you. For this same Lord
I do repent: but heaven hath pleas’d it so,
To punish me with this, and this with me,
That I must be their scourge and minister.
I will bestow him, and will answer well
The death I gave him. So again, good night.
I must be cruel, only to be kind:
Thus bad begins and worse remains behind.
One word more, good lady.

Gertrude  What shall I do?

Hamlet  Not this by no means that I bid you do:
Let the bloat king tempt you again to bed,
Pinch wanton on your cheek, call you his mouse,
And let him for a pair of reechy kisses,
Or paddling in your neck with his damn’d fingers,
Make you to ravel all this matter out,
That I essentially am not in madness,
But mad in craft. ’Twere good you let him know,
For who, that’s but a Queen, fair, sober, wise,
Would from a toad, a tomcat or a bat,
Such dear concernings hide? Who would do so?

Gertrude  Be thou assur’d, if words be made of breath,
And breath of life, I have no life to breathe
What thou hast said to me.

Hamlet  I must to England, you know that?

Gertrude  Alack I had forgot: ’tis so concluded on.

Hamlet  This man shall set me packing.
I’ll lug the guts into the neighbour room.
Mother, good night. Indeed this counsellor
Is now most still, most secret and most grave,
Who was in life a foolish prating knave.
Come, sir, to draw toward an end with you.
Good night, mother.

Exit Hamlet, dragging off Polonius
Enter Claudius, with Rosencrantz & Guildenstern

Claudius  There’s matter in these sighs. What says our son?

Gertrude  Ah, my good Lord, what have I seen tonight?

Claudius  What Gertrude? How does Hamlet?

Gertrude  Mad as the sea and wind, when both contend
Which is the mightier. In his lawless fit,
Behind the arras, hearing something stir,
Whips out his dagger, cries ‘a rat, a rat’
And in this brainish apprehension kills
The unseen good old man.

Claudius  O heavy deed.
It had been so with us, had we been there.
His liberty is full of threats to all,
To you yourself, to us, to every one.
Where is he gone?

Gertrude  To draw apart the body he hath kill’d,
O’er whom his very madness like some ore
Among a mineral of metals base
Shows itself pure. He weeps for what is done.

Claudius  The sun no sooner shall the mountains touch,
But we will ship him hence: and this vile deed
We must with all our majesty and skill
Both countenance and excuse. Friends both,
Go seek him out, speak fair, and bear the body
Into the chapel. I pray you, haste in this.

Exeunt Rosencrantz and Guildenstern

O Gertrude, Gertrude,
My soul is full of discord and dismay.

Scene 12  (Act 4 Sc2)

Elsewhere in the castle

Enter Hamlet

Ros & Guild  [Within] Hamlet! Lord Hamlet!

Hamlet  Oh here they come.

Enter Rosencrantz and Guildenstern

Rosencrantz  What have you done, my Lord, with the dead body?

Hamlet  Compounded it with dust, whereto ’tis kin.

Rosencrantz  Tell us where ’tis, that we may take it thence
And bear it to the chapel.

Hamlet  Do not believe it.

Rosencrantz  Believe what?

Hamlet  That I can keep your counsel, and not mine own. Besides, to be demanded of a sponge, what replication should be made by the son of a king?
Scene 13 (Act 4 Sc 3)

*Claudius and Gertude, as before. Enter Lord

Hamlet I have sent to seek him, and to find the body.
How dangerous is it that this man goes loose!
Yet must not we put the strong law on him.
He’s lov’d of the distracted multitude,
Who like not in their judgement but their eyes.

Enter Rosencrantz

How now? What hath befall’n?

Rosencrantz Where the dead body is bestow’d my Lord,
We cannot get from him.

Claudius But where is he?

Rosencrantz Without my Lord, guarded, to know your pleasure.

Claudius Bring him before us.

Enter Hamlet and Guildenstern

Claudius Now Hamlet, where’s Polonius?

Hamlet At supper.

Claudius At supper? Where?

Hamlet Not where he eats, but where he is eaten: a certain convocation of politic worms are e’en at him. Your worm is your only emperor for diet. We fat all creatures else to fat us, and we fat ourselves for maggots. Your fat king and your lean beggar is but variable service: two dishes, but to one table: that’s the end.

Claudius  Alas, alas!

Hamlet  A man may fish with the worm that hath eat of a king, and eat of the fish that hath fed of that worm.

Claudius  What dost you mean by this?

Hamlet  Nothing, but to show you how a king may go a progress through the guts of a beggar.

Claudius  Where is Polonius?

Hamlet  In Heaven, send thither to see. If your messenger find him not there, seek him i’ the other place yourself. But indeed, if you find him not within this month, you shall nose him as you go up the stairs into the lobby.

Claudius  [To some Attendants] Go seek him there.

Hamlet  He will stay till you come.

Exit Lord

Claudius  Hamlet, this deed, for thine especial safety
Which we do tender as we dearly grieve
For that which thou hast done, must send thee hence
With fiery quickness. Therefore prepare thyself:
The bark is ready and the wind at help,
Thy associates ‘tend, and everything is bent
For England.

Hamlet  For England?

Claudius  Ay, Hamlet.

Hamlet  Good.

Claudius  So is it, if thou knew’st our purposes.

Hamlet  I see a cherub that sees them. But, come, for England. Farewell, dear mother.

Claudius  Thy loving father Hamlet.

Hamlet  My mother: father and mother is man and wife, man and wife is one flesh, and so my mother. Come, for England.

Exit Hamlet & Gertrude, severally

Claudius  Follow him at foot, tempt him with speed aboard:
Delay it not, I’ll have him hence tonight.
Away, for every thing is seal’d and done
That else leans on the affair: pray you, make haste.

Exeunt Rosencrantz and Guildenstern

And England, if my love thou hold’st at aught
Thou mayst not coldly set at odds
Our sovereign process, which imports at full,
By letters congruing to that effect,
The present death of Hamlet. Do it, England,
For like the hectic in my blood he rages,
And thou must cure me. Till I know 'tis done,
Howe'er my haps, my joys were ne'er begun.

Exit

Scene 14 (Act4 Sc4)
A plain in Denmark
Enter Fortinbras and a Captain

Fortinbras
Go Captain, from me greet the Danish King,
Tell him that by his licence, Fortinbras
Craves the conveyance of a promis'd march
Over his kingdom. You know the rendezvous.
If that his majesty would aught with us,
We shall express our duty in his eye
And let him know so.

Captain
I will do't, my lord.

Fortinbras
Go softly on.

Exeunt

Scene 15 (Act4 Sc5)
Elsinore. A room in the castle
Enter Gertrude and a Gentlewoman

Gertrude
I will not speak with her.

G’woman
She is importunate, indeed distract:
Her mood will needs be pitied.

Gertrude
What would she have?

G’woman
She speaks much of her father, says she hears
There’s tricks i’ the world, and hems, and beats her heart,
Spurns enviously at straws, speaks things in doubt,
That carry but half sense.
‘Twere good she were spoken with, for she may strew dangerous conjectures in ill-breeding minds.

Gertrude
Let her come in.

Exit Gentlewoman

To my sick soul, as sin’s true nature is,
Each toy seems prologue to some great amiss.
Ophelia Where is the beauteous majesty of Denmark?

Gertrude How now, Ophelia?

Ophelia [Sings] How should I your true love know
From another one?
By his cockle hat and staff,
And his sandal shoon.

Gertrude Alas, sweet lady, what imports this song?

Ophelia Say you? Nay, pray you, mark.
He is dead and gone, lady,
He is dead and gone,
At his head a grass-green turf,
At his heels a stone.

Enter Claudius

Gertrude Nay but Ophelia -

Ophelia Pray you, mark.
White his shroud as the mountain snow -

Gertrude Alas, look here my Lord.

Ophelia Larded all with sweet flowers
Which bewept to the grave did not go
With true-love showers.

Claudius How do you, pretty lady?

Ophelia Well, God 'ild you. They say the owl was a baker’s daughter.
Lord, we know what we are, but know not what we may be. God be at your table.

Claudius Conceit upon her father.

Ophelia Pray you, let’s have no words of this, but when they ask you what it means, say you this:
Tomorrow is Saint Valentine’s day,
All in the morning betime,
And I a maid at your window,
To be your Valentine.
Then up he rose, and donn’d his clothes,
And dupp’d the chamber-door,
Let in the maid, that out a maid
Never departed more.

Claudius Pretty Ophelia!

Ophelia Indeed la? without an oath I’ll make an end on’t:
By Gis and by Saint Charity,
Alack, and fie for shame:
Young men will do’t, if they come to’t,
By cock, they are to blame.
Quoth she, before you tumbl’d me,
You promis’d me to wed:
So would I ha’ done by yonder sun,
An thou hadst not come to my bed.

Claudius              How long hath she been thus?

Ophelia              I hope all will be well. We must be patient, but I cannot choose but weep to think they should lay him i’ the cold ground. My brother shall know of it: and so I thank you for your good counsel.
Come, my coach. Good night, ladies. Good night, sweet ladies.
Good night, good night.

Exit

Claudius              Follow her close, give her good watch, I pray you.

Exit Gentlewoman

O this is the poison of deep grief, it springs
All from her father’s death. Oh Gertrude, Gertrude,
When sorrows come they come not single spies
But in battalions. First her father slain,
Next your son gone, and he most violent author
Of his own just remove: the people muddied,
Thick and unwholesome in their thoughts and whispers
For good Polonius’ death: and we have done but greenly
In hugger-mugger to inter him. Poor Ophelia
Divided from herself and her fair judgment,
Without the which we are pictures, or mere beasts:
Last, and as much containing as all these -

Laertes               [Off] Where is this king?

Gertrude             Alack, what noise is this?

Enter Reynaldo

Reynaldo             Save yourself, my Lord.

Claudius             What is the matter? Where are my Switzers?

Enter Laertes

Laertes               O thou vile king, give me my father!

Gertrude             Calmly, good Laertes.

Laertes               That drop of blood that’s calm proclaims me bastard,
Cries cuckold to my father, brands the harlot
Even here, between the chaste unsmirched brow
Of my true mother.

Claudius             Let him go, Gertrude. Do not fear our person.
There’s such divinity doth wall a king
That treason dares not look on. Tell me Laertes,
Why thou art thus incens’d. Let him go, Gertrude!
Speak man.

Laertes Where is my father?

Claudius Dead.

Gertrude But not by him.

Claudius Let him demand his fill.

Laertes How came he dead? I’ll not be juggl’d with.
To hell, allegiance: conscience and grace
To the profoundest pit: I dare damnation.
To this point I stand, that both the worlds
I give to negligence, let come what comes,
Only I’ll be reveng’d most throughly for my father.

Claudius Good Laertes,
If you desire to know the certainty
Of your dear father’s death, is’t writ in your revenge,
That, swoopstake, you will draw both friend and foe,
Winner and loser?

Laertes None but his enemies.

Claudius Will you know them then?

Laertes To his good friends thus wide I’ll ope my arms,
And like the kind life-rendering pelican
Repast them with my blood.

Claudius Why, now you speak
Like a good child, and a true gentleman.
That I am guiltless of your father’s death,
And am most sensibly in grief for it,
It shall as level to your judgment ‘pear
As day does to your eye.

Ophelia [Within] Let her come in!

Laertes How now?

Re-enter Ophelia

O heat, dry up my brains, tears seven times salt,
Burn out the sense and virtue of mine eye.
By Heaven, thy madness shall be paid by weight
Till our scale turn the beam. O rose of May,
Dear maid, kind sister, sweet Ophelia.
Oh Heavens, is’t possible a young maid’s wits
Should be as mortal as an old man’s life?

Ophelia They bore him barefac’d on the bier,
Hey non nonny, nonny, hey nonny,
And on his grave rain’d many a tear:
Fare you well, my dove, my boy.
Laertes

Hadst thou thy wits, and didst persuade revenge, it could not move thus.

Ophelia

You must sing a-down a-down, and you call him a-down-a.
Oh, how the wheel becomes it? It is the false steward that stole his master’s daughter. There’s rosemary, that’s for remembrance. Pray, love, remember: and there is pansies, that’s for thoughts. There’s fennel for you, and columbines: there’s rue for you, and here’s some for me. We may call it herb-a-grace a Sundays. Oh you must wear your rue with a difference. There’s a daisy. I would give you some violets, but they wither’d all when my father died. They say a made a good end.

For bonny sweet Robin is all my joy.

Laertes

Thought and affliction, passion, Hell itself
She turns to favour and to prettiness.

Ophelia

And will he not come again?
And will he not come again?
No, no, he is dead, go to thy death-bed,
He never will come again.
His beard was as white as snow,
All flaxen was his poll:
He is gone, he is gone, and we cast away moan:
God a’ mercy on his soul.
And on all Christian souls, I pray God. God be wi’ ye.

Exit, followed by Gertrude

Laertes

Do you see this, oh God?

Claudius

Laertes, I must commune with your grief,
Or you deny me right. If by direct
Or by collat’ral hand you find us touch’d
In this, we will our kingdom give,
Our crown, our life, and all that we call ours,
To you in satisfaction. But if not,
Be you content to lend your patience to us,
And we shall jointly labour with your soul
To give it due content.

Laertes

Let this be so.

His means of death, his obscure funeral -
No trophy, sword, nor hatchment o’er his bones,
No noble rite nor formal ostentation -
Cry to be heard, as ’twere from Heaven to earth,
That I must call’t in question.

Claudius

So you shall. Attend, I pray you.

They sit

Exit Reynaldo
Scene 16 (Act 4 Sc 6)

Horatio with a letter

Horatio
[Reads] Horatio, ere we were two days old at sea, a pirate of very warlike appointment gave us chase. Finding ourselves too slow of sail, we put on a compelled valour, and in the grapple I boarded them. On that instant they got clear of our ship, so I alone became their prisoner. They have dealt with me like thieves of mercy: but they knew what they did, I am to do a good turn for them. Let the king have the letters I have sent, and repair thou to me with as much speed as thou wouldst fly death. I have words to speak in thine ear will make thee dumb. Rosencrantz and Guildenstern hold their course for England: of them I have much to tell thee. Farewell. ‘He that thou knowest thine, Hamlet.’

Exit

Scene 17 (Act 4 Sc 7)

Claudius and Laertes

Claudius
Now must your conscience my acquittance seal,
Since you have heard, and with a knowing ear,
That he which hath your noble father slain
Pursu’d my life. For the which is he sent Into England, never to return.

Laertes
It well appears. But why could you not proceed
Against these feats, so crimeful and so capital
In nature and condemn him here?

Claudius
O for two special reasons,
Which may to you seem much unsinew’d,
But yet to me they’re strong. The Queen his mother
Lives almost by his looks, and for myself -
My virtue or my plague, be it either which -
She’s so conjunctive to my life and soul,
I could not but by her. The other motive,
Why to a public count I might not go,
Is the great love the general gender bear him.
Who dipping all his faults in their affection -

Enter Lord

Lord
How now! what news?

Claudius
Letters, my Lord, from Hamlet:
This to your majesty, this to the Queen.

Lord
From Hamlet? Who brought them?

Claudius
Sailors my Lord, they say, I saw them not.
Claudius  [Reads] High and Mighty, you shall know I am set naked on your Kingdom. Tomorrow shall I beg leave to see your kingly eyes: when I shall, first asking your pardon thereunto, recount the occasion of my sudden and more strange return. Hamlet. [To Reynaldo] What should this mean? Are all the rest come back? Or is it some abuse, and no such thing?

Lord I am lost in it, my Lord.

Exit Lord

Laertes Let him come,
It warms the very sickness in my heart,
That I shall live and tell him to his teeth,
‘Thus did’st thou.’

Claudius If it be so Laertes, as how should it be so,
How otherwise, will you be rul’d by me?

Laertes Ay, my Lord,
So you will not o’errule me to a peace.

Claudius To thine own peace. If he be now return’d,
As this letter gives us proof, I will work him
To an exploit, ripening in my device,
Under the which he cannot choose but fall.
And for his death no wind of blame shall breathe,
But even his mother shall uncharge the practice
And call it accident. Some months since,
Here was a gentleman of Normandy
That gave you such a masterly report
For art and exercise in your defence,
And for your rapier most especial,
That he cried out ‘twould be a sight indeed
If one could match you. Now, out of this -

Laertes What out of this, my Lord?

Claudius Laertes, was your father dear to you?
Or are you like the painting of a sorrow.
A face without a heart?

Laertes Why ask you this?

Claudius Hamlet comes back. What would you undertake
To show yourself your father’s son in deed
More than in words?

Laertes To cut his throat I’th’church.

Claudius No place indeed should murder sanctuarize:
Revenge should have no bounds. But good Laertes,
Will you do this? Keep close within your chamber.
Hamlet return’d, shall know you are come home:
We’ll put on those shall praise your excellence
And set a double varnish on the fame
The Frenchman gave you, bring you in fine together
And wager on your heads. He being remiss,
Most generous and free from all contriving,
Will not peruse the foils, so that with ease,
Or with a little shuffling, you may choose
A sword unbated, and in a pass of practice
Requite him for your father.

Laertes  I will do’t. And lest this should fail, my lord,
I’ll touch my point with some contagion
That if I gall him slightly it may be death.

Claudius  We’ll further think on’t. If our drift shine through
Our bad performance, ’twere better not assay’d.

Enter Gertrude

How now, sweet Queen?

Gertrude  One woe doth tread upon another’s heel,
So fast they follow. Your sister’s drown’d, Laertes.

Laertes  Drown’d?

Gertrude  There is a willow grows aslant a brook,
That shows his hoar leaves in the glassy stream.
There with fantastic garlands did she come
Of crow-flowers, nettles, daisies, and long purples
That liberal shepherds give a grosser name,
But our cold maids do dead men’s fingers call them.
There on the pendent boughs, her coronet weeds
Clambering to hang, an envious sliver broke,
When down her weedy trophies and herself
Fell in the weeping brook. Her clothes spread wide,
And mermaid-like, awhile they bore her up,
Which time she chanted snatches of old tunes,
As one incapable of her own distress:
But long it could not be
Till that her garments, heavy with their drink,
Pull’d the poor wretch from her melodious lay
To muddy death.

Laertes  Alas then, is she drown’d?

Gertrude  Drown’d, drown’d.

Laertes  Too much of water hast thou, poor Ophelia,
And therefore I forbid my tears: but yet
It is our trick, nature her custom holds,
Let shame say what it will. When these are gone
The woman will be out. Adieu, my Lord,
I have a speech of fire, that fain would blaze,
But that this folly drows it.
Claudius

Let’s follow, Gertrude.

How much I had to do to calm his rage.

Now fear I this will give it start again.

Therefore let’s follow.

Exeunt

Scene 18 (Act5 Sc1)

Night. A Sexton digging a grave

Enter Hamlet & Horatio

Sexton

[Singing] In youth, when I did love, did love,

Methought it was very sweet,

To contract, O the time for, ah, my behove,

O methought there was nothing meet.

Hamlet

Has this creature no feeling of her business, that he sings at grave-making?

Horatio

Custom hath made it in him a property of easiness.

Hamlet

‘Tis e’en so: the hand of little employment hath the daintier sense.

Sexton

But age, with his stealing steps,

Hath caught me in his clutch,

And hath shipped me into the land,

As if I had never been such.

Throws up a skull

Hamlet

That skull had a tongue in it, and could sing once: how the jade jowls it to the ground, as if it were Cain’s jaw-bone, that did the first murder. It might be the pate of a politician, which this ass now o’er-reaches, one that would circumvent God, might it not?

Horatio

It might, my Lord.

Hamlet

Or of a courtier, which could say ‘Good morrow, sweet Lord, how dost thou, good Lord?’ This might be my Lord such-a-one, that prais’d my Lord such-a-one’s horse when he meant to beg it, might it not?

Horatio

Ay, my Lord.

Hamlet

Why, e’en so. And now he’s my Lady Worm’s, chopless, and knock’d about the mazzard with a sexton’s spade. Here’s fine revolution, an we had the trick to see’t.

Sexton

A pick-axe, and a spade, a spade,

For and a shrouding sheet:

O a pit of clay for to be made

For such a guest is meet.
Throws up another skull

Hamlet
Why may not that be the skull of a lawyer? Where be his quiddities now, his quilletts, his cases, his tenures, and his tricks? Why does he suffer this rude wanton to knock him about the sconce with a dirty shovel, and will not tell him of his action of battery? Hum. Whose grave’s this, Sexton?

Sexton
Mine, sir.

Hamlet
O a pit of clay for to be made
For such a guest is meet.

Sexton
You lie out on’t, sir, and therefore ’tis not yours. For my part, I do not lie in’t, and yet it is mine.

Hamlet
Thou dost lie in’t, to be in’t and say ’tis thine. ’Tis for the dead, not for the quick: therefore thou liest.

Sexton
’Tis a quick lie sir, ’twill away again from me to you.

Hamlet
What man dost thou dig it for?

Sexton
For no man sir.

Hamlet
What woman, then?

Sexton
For none neither.

Hamlet
Who is to be buried in’t?

Sexton
One that was a woman, sir: but rest her soul, she’s dead.

Hamlet
How absolute the jade is. We must speak by the card, or equivocation will undo us. How long hast thou been a grave-maker?

Sexton
Of all the days i’ the year, I came to’t that day that our last King Hamlet o’ercame Old Fortinbras.

Hamlet
How long is that since?

Sexton
Cannot you tell that? Every fool can tell that. It was the very day that young Hamlet was born, he that is mad and sent into England.

Hamlet
Ay, marry, why was he sent into England?

Sexton
Why, because he was mad. He shall recover his wits there: or, if he do not, ’tis no great matter there.

Hamlet
Why?

Sexton
’Twill not be seen in him there. There the men are as mad as he.

Hamlet
How came he mad?

Sexton
Very strangely, they say.

Hamlet
How strangely?
Sexton  Faith, e’en with losing his wits.
Hamlet  Upon what ground?
Sexton  Why, here in Denmark. I have bin sexton here, man and boy, twenty years.
Hamlet  How long will a man lie i’ the earth ere he rot?
Sexton  I’ faith, if he be not rotten before he die - as we have many pocky corse nowadays that will scarce hold the laying in - he will last you some eight year, or nine year. A tanner will last you nine year.
Hamlet  Why he more than another?
Sexton  Why sir, his hide is so tann’d with his trade that he will keep out water a great while, and your water is a sore decayer of your whoreson dead body. Here’s a skull now hath lain you in the earth a dozen year.
Hamlet  Whose was it?
Sexton  A whoreson mad fellow’s it was: whose do you think it was?
Hamlet  Nay, I know not.
Sexton  A pestilence on him for a mad rogue, a’ pour’d a flagon of Rhenish on my head once. This same skull, sir, was Yorick’s skull, the king’s jester.
Hamlet  This?
Sexton  E’en that.
Hamlet  Let me see. Alas, poor Yorick. I knew him, Horatio, a fellow of infinite jest, of most excellent fancy. He hath borne me on his back a thousand times: and now how abhorred in my imagination it is, my gorge rises at it. Here hung those lips that I have kiss’d I know not how oft. Where be your jibes now? Your gambols? Your songs? Your flashes of merriment that were wont to set the table on a roar? Not one now to mock your own grinning? Quite chop-fallen? Now get you to my lady’s chamber and tell her, let her paint an inch thick, to this favour she must come. Make her laugh at that. [To Horatio] Dost thou think Alexander look’d o’ this fashion i’ the earth?
Horatio  E’en so.
Hamlet  And smelt so? Pah.
Horatio  E’en so my Lord.
Hamlet  To what base uses we may return, Horatio. Why may not imagination trace the noble dust of Alexander till he find it stopping a bunghole?
Horatio  ’Twere to consider too curiously, to consider so.
Hamlet

No faith, not a jot. Alexander died, Alexander was buried, Alexander returneth into dust, the dust is earth, of earth we make loam, and why of that loam, whereto he was converted, might they not stop a beer-barrel?

Imperious Caesar, dead and turn’d to clay, Might stop a hole to keep the wind away.
But soft, but soft, aside: here comes the King.

Enter Claudius, Gertrude, Laertes with Priest and Monks and others in procession with the body of Ophelia

The Queen, the courtiers. Who is that they follow,
And with such maimed rites? This doth betoken
The corse they follow did with desperate hand
Fordo its own life. ’Twas of some estate.
Couch we awhile, and mark.

Laertes
What ceremony else?

Hamlet
That is Laertes, a very noble youth: mark.

Laertes
What ceremony else?

Priest
Her obsequies have been as far enlarg’d
As we have warranty. Her death was doubtful,
And but that great command o’ersways the order,
She should in ground unsanctified been lodg’d
Till the last trumpet. For charitable prayer,
Shards, flints and pebbles should be thrown on her:
Yet here she is allow’d her virgin rights,
Her maiden strewment, and the bringing home
Of bell and burial.

Laertes
Must there no more be done?

Priest
No more be done!
We should profane the service of the dead
To sing a requiem and such rest to her
As to peace-parted souls.

Laertes
Lay her i’ the earth:
And from her fair and unpolluted flesh
May violets spring. I tell thee, churlish priest,
A ministering angel shall my sister be
When thou liest howling.

Hamlet
What, the fair Ophelia?

Gertrude
[Scattering flowers] Sweets to the sweet, farewell.
I hop’d thou should’st have been my Hamlet’s wife.
I thought thy bride-bed to have deck’d, sweet maid,
And not have strew’d thy grave.

Laertes
O, treble woe
Fall ten times treble on that cursed head
Whose wicked deed thy most ingenious sense
Depriv’d thee of. Hold off awhile,
Till I have caught her once more in mine arms.
Now pile your dust upon the quick and dead,
Till of this flat a mountain you have made,
To o’ertop old Pelion, or the skyish head
Of blue Olympus.

Hamlet

What is he, whose grief
Bears such an emphasis, whose phrase of sorrow
Conjures the wandering stars and makes them stand
Like wonder-wounded hearers? This is I,
Hamlet the Dane.

Laertes

The devil take thy soul.

Hamlet

Thou pray’st not well.
I prithee take thy fingers from my throat –

Claudius

Pluck them asunder.

Hamlet

For though I am not splenitive and rash,
Yet have I something in me dangerous,
Which let thy wisdom fear.

Gertrude

Hamlet, Hamlet.

G’tlewoman

Good my Lord, be quiet.

Hamlet

Why, I will fight with him upon this theme
Until my eyelids will no longer wag.

Gertrude

O my son, what theme?

Hamlet

I loved Ophelia. Forty thousand brothers
Could not, with all their quantity of love,
Make up my sum. What wilt thou do for her?

Claudius

Oh he is mad, Laertes.

Gertrude

For love of God, forbear him.

Hamlet

’Swounds, show me what thou’lt do.
Woo’t weep? Woo’t fight? Woo’t fast? Woo’t tear thyself?
Woo’t drink up eisel, eat a crocodile?
I’ll do’t. Dost thou come here to whine,
To outface me with leaping in her grave?
Be buried quick with her, and so will I.
And if thou prate of mountains, let them throw
Millions of acres on us, till our ground,
Singeing his pate against the burning zone,
Make Ossa like a wart! Nay, an thou’lt mouth,
I’ll rant as well as thou.
Gertrude

This is mere madness:
And thus awhile the fit will work on him.
Anon, as patient as the female dove
When that her golden couplets are disclos’d,
His silence will sit drooping.

Hamlet

Hear you sir,
What is the reason that you use me thus?
I lov’d you ever. But it is no matter,
Let Hercules himself do what he may,
The cat will mew and dog will have his day.

Claudius

[To Laertes]
Strengthen your patience in our last night's speech,
We’ll put the matter to the present push.
Good Gertrude, set some watch over your son.
[To the bearers] Come, sirs.

Exit

Scene 19 (Act5 Sc2)

A Hall in the Castle
Enter Hamlet and Horatio

Hamlet

Sir, in my heart there was a kind of fighting,
That would not let me sleep. Rashly,
And prais’d be rashness for it - let us know
Our indiscretion sometimes serves us well,
When our deep plots do pall, and that should teach us
There’s a divinity that shapes our ends,
Rough-hew them how we will -

Horatio

That is most certain.

Hamlet

Up from my cabin,
My sea-gown scar’d about me, in the dark
Grop’d I to find out them, had my desire,
Finger’d their packet, and in fine withdrew
To mine own room again, making so bold,
My fears forgetting manners, to unseal
Their grand commission, where I found, Horatio -
O royal knavery - an exact command,
Importing Denmark’s health and England’s too,
That on the supervise, no leisure bated,
No, not to stay the grinding of the axe,
My head should be struck off.

Horatio

Is’t possible?

Hamlet

Here’s the commission: read it at more leisure.
Hamlet: But wilt thou hear me how I did proceed?

Horatio: I beseech you.

Hamlet: I sat me down, devis’d a new commission.

Wilt thou know the effect of what I wrote?

Horatio: Ay, good my Lord.

Hamlet: An earnest conjuration from the king,

As England was his faithful tributary,

As love between them like the palm might flourish,

And many such-like ‘As’es of great charge,

That on the view and knowing of these contents,

He should the bearers put to sudden death,

Not shriving-time allow’d. Now, the next day

Was our sea-fight, and what to this was sequent

Thou know’st already.

Horatio: So Guildenstern and Rosencrantz go to’t.

Hamlet: Why, man, they did make love to this employment.

They are not near my conscience. Their defeat

Doth by their own insinuation grow.

‘Tis dangerous, when the baser nature comes

Between the pass and fell incensed points

Of mighty opposites.

Horatio: Why, what a king is this?

Hamlet: Does it not, think’st thee, stand me now upon -

He that hath kill’d my king and whor’d my mother,

Popp’d in between the election and my hopes,

Thrown out his angle for my proper life,

And with such cozenage - is’t not perfect conscience

To quit him with this arm? And is’t not to be damn’d

To let this canker of our nature come

In further evil?

Horatio: It must be shortly known to him from England

What is the issue of the business there.

Hamlet: It will be short: the interim’s mine,

And a man’s life’s no more than to say ‘One.’

But I am very sorry, good Horatio,

That to Laertes I forgot myself,

But, sure, the bravery of his grief did put me

Into a towering passion.

Horatio: Peace, who comes here?

Enter Osric

Osric: Your Lordship is right welcome back to Denmark.
Hamlet  I humbly thank you sir. Dost know this water-fly?
Horatio  No, my good Lord.
Hamlet  Thy state is the more gracious, ‘tis a vice to know him.
Osric  Sweet Lord, if your Lordship were at leisure, I should impart a thing to you from his Majesty.
Hamlet  I will receive it sir, with all diligence of spirit. Put your bonnet to his right use, ‘tis for the head.
Osric  I thank your Lordship, it is very hot.
Hamlet  No, believe me ’tis very cold, the wind is northerly.
Osric  It is indifferent cold my Lord, indeed.
Hamlet  But yet methinks it is very sultry and hot for my complexion.
Osric  Exceedingly, my Lord, it is very sultry - as ‘twere - I cannot tell how. But, my Lord, his majesty bade me signify to you that he has laid a great wager on your head -
Hamlet  I beseech you, remember -
Osric  Nay good my Lord, for mine ease, in good faith. Sir, you are not ignorant of what excellence Laertes is at his weapon.
Hamlet  What’s his weapon?
Osric  Rapier and dagger.
Hamlet  That’s two of his weapons: but, well.
Osric  The King sir, hath wager’d with him six Barbary horses, against the which he has impon’d, as I take it, six French rapiers and poniards, with their assigns, as girdle, hangers, and so: three of the carriages in faith are very dear to fancy, very responsive to the hilts, most delicate carriages, and of very liberal conceit.
Hamlet  What call you the carriages?
Osric  The carriages sir, are the hangers.
Hamlet  The phrase would be more germaine to the matter if we could carry a cannon by our sides: I would it might be hangers till then. But on: six Barbary horses against six French swords, their assigns, and three liberal-conceited carriages - that’s the French bet against the Danish. Why is this ‘impon’d,’ as you call it?
Osric  The King sir, hath laid sir, that in a dozen passes between yourself and him, he shall not exceed you three hits: and it would come to immediate trial, if your Lordship would vouchsafe the answer.
Hamlet  How if I answer ‘no’?
Osric  I mean my Lord, the opposition of your person in trial.
Hamlet  Sir, I will walk here in the hall. If it please his Majesty, ‘tis the breathing time of day with me. Let the foils be brought, the gentleman willing, and the King hold his purpose, I will win for him an I can. If not, I will gain nothing but my shame and the odd hits.

Osric    Shall I redeliver you e’en so?

Hamlet   To this effect sir, after what flourish your nature will.

Osric    I commend my duty to your Lordship.

Hamlet   Yours, yours.

Exit Osric

Horatio  You will lose this wager, my Lord.

Hamlet   I do not think so. I shall win at the odds. But thou wouldst not think how ill all’s here about my heart: but it is no matter.

Horatio  Nay, good my Lord -

Hamlet   It is but foolery: it is such a kind of gain-giving as would perhaps trouble a woman.

Horatio  If your mind dislike any thing, obey it. I will forestall their repair hither and say you are not fit.

Hamlet   Not a whit, we defy augury. There’s a special providence in the fall of a sparrow. If it be now, ’tis not to come: if it be not to come, it will be now: if it be not now, yet it will come: the readiness is all. Since no man has aught of what he leaves, what is’t to leave betimes? Let be.

Enter Claudius, Gertrude, Laertes, Reynaldo, and others with foils etc

Claudius  Come, Hamlet, come, and take this hand from me.

         Claudius puts Laertes’ hand into Hamlet’s

Hamlet   Give me your pardon, sir: I have done you wrong.
But pardon’t, as you are a gentleman.
This presence knows,
And you must needs have heard, how I am punish’d
With a sore distraction. What I have done,
That might your nature, honour and exception
Roughly awake, I here proclaim was madness.
Was’t Hamlet wrong’d Laertes? Never Hamlet.
If Hamlet from himself be ta’en away,
And when he’s not himself does wrong Laertes,
Then Hamlet does it not, Hamlet denies it.
Who does it, then? His madness. If’t be so,
Hamlet is of the faction that is wrong’d,
His madness is poor Hamlet’s enemy.
Sir, in this audience,
Let my disclaiming from a purpos’d evil
Free me so far in your most generous thoughts,
That I have shot mine arrow o’er the house
And hurt my brother.

_Laertes_

I am satisfied in nature,
Whose motive in this case should stir me most
To my revenge. But in my terms of honour
I stand aloof, and will no reconcilement
Till by some elder masters of known honour,
I have a voice and precedent of peace
To keep my name ungor’d. But till that time,
I do receive your offer’d love like love,
And will not wrong it.

_Hamlet_

I do embrace it freely,
And will this brother’s wager frankly play.
Give us the foils. Come on.

_Laertes_

Come, one for me.

_Hamlet_

I’ll be your foil, Laertes. In mine ignorance
Your skill shall like a star i’ the darkest night,
Stick fiery off indeed.

_Laertes_

You mock me sir.

_Hamlet_

No, by this hand.

_Claudius_

Cousin Hamlet, you know the wager?

_Hamlet_

Very well, my Lord.
Your grace hath laid the odds o’ the weaker side.

_Claudius_

I do not fear it, I have seen you both:
But since he is better’d, we have therefore odds.

_Hamlet_

This likes me well. These foils have all a length?

_Reynaldo_

Ay, my good Lord.

_Claudius_

If Hamlet give the first or second hit,
Or quit in answer of the third exchange,
The King shall drink to Hamlet’s better breath,
And in the cup an union shall he throw
Richer than that which four successive kings
In Denmark’s crown have worn. Give me the cup:
Now the king drinks to Hamlet. Come, begin:
And you the judges bear a wary eye.

_Hamlet_

Come on, sir.

_Laertes_

Come, my Lord.

They play

_Hamlet_

One.

_Laertes_

No.
Hamlet  Judgment.
Osric  A hit.
Lord  A very palpable hit.
Laertes  Well, again.

They play

Hamlet  Another hit, what say you?
Laertes  A touch, a touch, I do confess.
Claudius  Our son shall win.

They play, then Claudius halts it

Stay, give me drink. Hamlet, this pearl is thine,
Here’s to thy health. Give him the cup.

Hamlet  I’ll play this bout first, set it by awhile.
Gertrude  Here Hamlet, take my napkin, rub thy brows.
The queen carouses to thy fortune, Hamlet.

Hamlet  Good madam.
Claudius  Gertrude, do not drink.
Gertrude  I will, my Lord, I pray you, pardon me.
Claudius  [Aside] The cup is poison’d: it is too late.
Hamlet  I dare not drink yet madam, by and by.
Gertrude  Come, let me wipe thy face.
Laertes  My lord, I’ll hit him now.
Claudius  I do not think it.
Laertes  [Aside] And yet ’tis almost ’gainst my conscience.

Laertes takes an unbated foil

Laertes  Say you so? Come on.

Laertes wounds Hamlet, then in scuffling, they change rapiers, and Hamlet wounds Laertes

Claudius  Part them, they are incens’d.
Hamlet  Nay, come, again.

Gertrude falls

Osric  Look to the queen there, ho! How is’t, Laertes?
Laertes  As a woodcock to mine own springe, Osric.
           I am justly kill’d with mine own treachery.
Hamlet  How does the queen?
Claudius: She swounds to see them bleed.

Gertrude: No, no, the drink, the drink - Oh my dear Hamlet -
The drink, the drink. I am poison’d.

Hamlet: O villainy! How? Let the doors be lock’d:
Treachery, seek it out.

Laertes: It is here, Hamlet. Hamlet, thou art slain.
No medicine in the world can do thee good.
In thee there is not half an hour of life.
The treacherous instrument is in thy hand,
Unbated and envenom’d: the foul practice
Hath turn’d itself on me. Lo, here I lie,
I can no more. The King, the King’s to blame.

Hamlet: The point envenom’d too?
Then, venom, to thy work.

Claudius: O yet defend me, friends, I am but hurt.

Hamlet: Here, thou incestuous, murderous, damned Dane,
Drink off this potion. Is thy union here?
Follow my mother.

Laertes: He is justly serv’d.
It is a poison temper’d by himself.
Exchange forgiveness with me, noble Hamlet:
Mine and my father’s death come not upon thee,
Nor thine on me.

Hamlet: Heaven make thee free of it, I follow thee.
I am dead, Horatio. Wretched queen, adieu.
You that look pale and tremble at this chance,
That are but mutes or audience to this act,
Had I but time - as this fell sergeant, death,
Is strict in his arrest - Oh I could tell you -
But let it be. Horatio, I am dead,
Thou livest, report me and my cause aright
To the unsatisfied.

Horatio: Never believe it.
I am more an antique Roman than a Dane:

Hamlet: As thou’rt a man,
Give me the cup. Let go - by heaven, I’ll have’t.
O good Horatio, what a wounded name,
Things standing thus unknown, shall live behind me.
If thou didst ever hold me in thy heart.
Absent thee from felicity awhile
And in this harsh world draw thy breath in pain,
To tell my story.

March afar off. Enter Osric

What warlike noise is this?

Osric
Young Fortinbras, with conquest come from Poland
To the ambassadors of England gives
This warlike volley.

Hamlet
O I die Horatio:
The potent poison quite o’er-crows my spirit.
I cannot live to hear the news from England,
So tell them, with the occurments, more and less,
Which have solicited - the rest is silence.

Dies

Horatio
Now cracks a noble heart. Good night sweet prince:
And flights of angels sing thee to thy rest.
Why does the drum come hither?

March within Enter Fortinbras

Fortinbras
This quarry cries on havoc. O proud death,
What feast is toward in thine eternal cell,
That thou so many princes at a shot
So bloodily hast struck?

Horatio
Since you, so jump upon this bloody question,
Are here arriv’d, give order that these bodies
High on a stage be placed to the view,
And let me speak to the yet unknowing world
How these things came about. So shall you hear
Of carnal, bloody, and unnatural acts,
Of accidental judgments, casual slaughters,
Of deaths put on by cunning and forc’d cause,
And, in this upshot, purposes mistook
Fall’n on the inventors’ reads. All this can I Truly deliver.

Fortinbras
Let us haste to hear it,
And call the noblest to the audience.
For me, with sorrow I embrace my fortune:
I have some rights of memory in this kingdom,
Which now to claim my vantage doth invite me.
Take up the bodies: such a sight as this
Becomes the field, but here shows much amiss.
Go, bid the soldiers shoot.
